

JUST WHAT YOU'RE LOOKING FOR

HERE IT IS!

NORTHERN NEVADA
COMMUNITY COLLEGE

1991 - 1992

REGISTRATION

ELKO

Register at NNCC by telephone

Registration for the fall term at Northern Nevada Community College is scheduled to continue through Aug. 27.

Residents are encouraged to call in their registration by touch-tone telephone. Anyone who did not receive a schedule by mail may request one at the NNCC Student Services office or they may call 753-2102.

College spokesmen also announced that a second, daytime section of Elementary Accounting I, ACC 151, has been added to the fall schedule. The class will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 10:45 a.m.

EDFP 8/20/91

Expert advice: Members of the Northern Nevada Community College faculty were on hand yesterday to give advice to incoming students. Social Sciences instructor Karen Martin, right, discusses courses with Lillian Atkins, left, and Rosalie Virgil at Berg Hall. Registration for the fall term continues through Tuesday. Classes are slated to begin Sept. 3.

EDFP 8/23/91

NNCC registration concludes Thursday

Touch-tone phone registration for classes at Northern Nevada Community College will continue through Tuesday, and "walk-in" registration will be held Wednesday and Thursday in Berg Hall.

"Walk-in" registration hours have been extended to 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. both days, according to NNCC spokesman Joyce Shaw. The semester begins Sept. 3.

The fall schedule contains the largest number and variety of courses ever offered, according to Stan Ajazzi, dean of students.

"We offer classes for every segment of the population and we're opening many doors for Elko residents," he said.

Some of those classes include European Civilization, Survey of Philosophy, War and Western Civilization, Music Appreciation and Introduction of Literature.

In addition, art classes include drawing, painting, ceramics, sculpture, graphic design, construction of metal jewelry, papermaking and basketry.

Child-care seminars and 15-week courses will include Human Growth and Development, Health and Nutrition of Children, Teaching the Young Child, Language Development, Child Abuse, Infectious Diseases, Child Guidance and Attention Deficit Disorder.

EDFP 8/24/91

Three short writing workshops will be offered by English instructor Cyd McMullen — Writing the Personal Essay, Short Fiction and Poetry. Students can participate in production of a college newspaper by enrolling in Journalism 120B.

Shaw also said classes in business and money management include: Bookkeeping, Elementary and Intermediate Accounting, Introduction to Business, Business Law, Financial Planning and Investments, Business Communications, Small Business Management, Personnel Management, Investing in the 1990s, Strategies for Wealth Accumulation and Computer Information Systems.

Two new degree programs are also available in Medical Laboratory Technology and Electronics Technology.

Fall class schedules are still available at the office of student services in Berg Hall. For more information on registration procedures and classes, students are invited to call 753-2103.

New students registering by phone must fill out application forms and complete a registration worksheet.

Classes filling fast at NNCC

Fall semester classes are filling rapidly at Northern Nevada Community College, according to Lynn Mahlberg, director of admissions and records.

Instruction will begin Sept. 3.

Students should check the status of their classes before attending the first sessions and review their schedules for late-starting classes, Mahlberg said.

Class cancellations will be posted in the lobbies of Berg and McMullen halls and on Channel 32, and are listed on a telephone recording. To reach that recording, students were instructed to dial 753-2100.

Students should call Student Services at 753-2102 if they have questions about their classes, Mahlberg stated.

EDFP 8/27/91

HOT New Classes For A COOL Fall Season at NNCC

DEPARTMENT	CALL	DEPT	CRSE	SECT	COURSE TITLE	CREDITS	TIME	DAY	INSTRUCTOR	ROOM	TOTAL FEE
ACCOUNTING	01350	ACC	199B	E01	First Aid for Small Business (3 Wks. Beg. 10/11)	½	8-11 a.m.	F	Cook, L.	MCML 14	$13
ART	01347	ART	140B	E02	Ceramics — Handbuilding and Wheel Throwing (6 Wks. Beg. 11/8)	1	7-10 p.m.	W	Finley	ART BARN	$26
	01017	ART	203	E01	Field Study — Reno ($80 Lab Fee, 10/11-13)	1	TBA	F,Sat,Sun	Sweetwater	TBA	$86
	01375	ART	203	E05	Field Study — Reno (11/11-13)	1	TBA	F,Sat,Sun	Sweetwater	TBA	$26
	01370	ART	203	E04	Field Study — Salt Lake City ($80 Lab Fee, 11/8-10)	1	TBA	F,Sat,Sun	Sweetwater	TBA	$106
	01378	ART	203	E06	Field Study — Salt Lake City (11/8-10)	1	TBA	F,Sat,Sun	Sweetwater	TBA	$26
	01345	ART	203	E02	Field Study — London ($1049 Fee, 11/30-12/8)	1-3	TBA	TBA	Sweetwater	TBA	$26-78
	01369	ART	299B	E99	Matting, Framing and Care of Art work (2 Wks. Beg. 10/17)	½	8-10 p.m.	Th	Sweetwater	MCML 12	$13
	01372	ART	299B	E04	Stone Carving in the Garage ($10 Lab Fee, 10/26)	½	8 a.m.-4 p.m.	Sat	Sweetwater	ART BARN	$23
	01373	ART	299B	E05	Let's Draw (11/11-13)	½	4-6:30 p.m.	M,T,W	Sweetwater	MCML 12	$13
	01374	ART	299B	E06	Day/Acct. Welding for Artists ($15 Lab Fee, 10/19)	½	8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.	Sat	Martin, E.	WELD SHOP	$28
BUSINESS	01357	BUS	299B	E03	Mediation to Prevent Litigation (11/22-23)	1	6-9 p.m.	F	Smith, P.	MCML 20	$26
	01363	BUS	299B	E04	Time Management (2 Wks. Beg. 10/18)	½	9 a.m.-5 p.m. 1-5 p.m.	Sat F
CHILD DEVELOPMENT	01039	CD	167	E01	Child Abuse and Neglect (10/4-5)	1	6-9:30 p.m. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.	F Sat	Cook, M.	MCML 19	$26
COMPUTER INFORMATION SYSTEMS	01352	CIS	198B	E13	Introduction to Microsoft Windows ($5 Lab Fee, 3 Wks. Beg. 10/7)	1	7-10 p.m.	M	McCarty	LUND 4	$31
	01364	CIS	198B	E14	Financial Management for Small Business Using Lotus 1-2-3 ($10 Lab Fee, 11/8-9)	½	1-5 p.m. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.	F Sat	Cook, L.	LUND 4	$23
CRIMINAL JUSTICE	01365	CRJ	198B	E01	Contemporary Issues and the Use of Force (11/20-21)	½	1-5 p.m. 8 a.m.-12 p.m.	W Th	Staff	TBA	$13
DENTAL ASSISTANT	01244	DA	285B	E01	Infectious Diseases (10/19, $10 Lab Fee)	1	9 a.m.-4 p.m.	Sat	Eissmann	MCML 17	$36
	01261	DA	285B	E02	Dental Radiography (10/20)	1	9 a.m.-5 p.m.	Sun	Eissmann	MCML 17	$26
EDUCATION	01231	EDUC	295B	E06	Effective Discipline of Children and Teens (11/15-16)	1	7-9 p.m. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.	F Sat	Hoern	MCML 13	$26
	01267	EDUC	295B	E07	Land, Water, Wildlife and Renewable Resources (10/4-5)	1	4-9 p.m. 9 a.m.-6 p.m.	F Sat	Neff	MCML 20	$26
ENGLISH	01202	ENG	299B	E02	Writing Short Fiction (5 Wks. Beg. 10/15)	1	7-10 p.m.	T	McMullen	MCML 13	$26
	01203	ENG	299B	E03	Poetry Workshop (10/5 and 10/26)	1	9 a.m.-4 p.m.	Sat	McMullen	MCML 13	$26
HOME ECONOMICS	01369	HEC	161	E01	Introduction to Interior Design (11/15-16)	1	7-9 p.m. 9 a.m.-4 p.m.	F Sat	Warren, N.	MCML 18	$26
JOURNALISM	01361	JOUR	299B	E01	Writing News Stories for the Student Newspaper (5 Wks. Beg. 10/30)	1	2-5 p.m.	W	Munson	MCML 20	$26
	01362	JOUR	299B	E02	Layout and Design for the Student Newspaper (12/6-7)	1	8 a.m.-12 p.m. 8 a.m.-6 p.m.	F Sat	Munson	MCML 14	$26
MINING TECHNOLOGY	01167	MINE	251	E01	Mining Law (10 Wks. Beg. 10/8)	2	7-10 p.m.	T	McFarlane	LUND 1A	$52
MUSIC	01270	MUS	113	E02	Class Vocal Instruction (6 Wks. Beg. 11/4)	1	7-9 p.m.	M	Sler	BERG 8,9	$26
PSYCHOLOGY	01233	PSY	299B	E03	Stress Management (10/25-26)	1	7-9 p.m. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.	F Sat	Hoern	MCML 20	$26
RECREATION/ PHYSICAL EDUCATION	01355	RPED	115	E01	Aerobic Dance and Weight Training (10 Wks. Beg. 10/8)	2	9-10 a.m.	T,W,Th	LaMonte	TBA	$52
	01150	RPED	178	E01	Dancersize (10 Wks. Beg. 10/1)	2	5:30-6:30 p.m.	T,W,Th	Richardson	SOUTHSIDE	$52
	01360	RPED	220B	E01	Karate (10 Wks. Beg. 10/7)	2	7-9 p.m.	M,W,F	Toiby	TBA	$52
COMMUNITY SERVICE	01172	AC	167C	E01	Natural Basketry (3 Wks. Beg. 10/28)	1	7-10 p.m.	M	Harner	ART BARN	$26
	01173	AC	197C	E01	Christmas Cards from Handmade Paper (11/15-16)	1	7-10 p.m. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.	F Sat	Harner	ART BARN	$26
	01179	LA	135C	E01	Country Swing Dance (11/22-23)	1	7-9 p.m. 8 a.m.-4 p.m.	F Sat	Prunty	NORTHSIDE	$26
	*	0000	0000	000	Machine Quilting — Kandy's Path (4 Wks. Beg. 10/8)	0	10 a.m.-1 p.m.	T	Paris	CLEARLY COUNTRY	$48
	*	0000	0000	000	Early American Primitives (12/14)	0	9 a.m.-1 p.m.	Sat	Wellington	304 CLIFF LN	$12
	*	0000	0000	000	Have a Hearty ♥ Holiday Season (11/12-14)	0	7-10 p.m.	T,Th	Kirshbaum	BERG 7	$25
	*	0000	0000	000	Dressage and Jumping Clinic (10/26-27)	0	8 a.m.-5 p.m. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.	Sat Sun	Herrmann	SCHP $25 Group $45 Private
	*	0000	0000	000	Bread Baking (3 Wks. Beg. 10/1)	0	7-10 p.m.	T	Popeck	BERG 7	$15
	*	0000	0000	000	Writing Press Releases (10/16)	0	7-10 p.m.	W	Branscomb	BERG CR	$15

* Touch-Tone Registration is not available for these classes. Register at the NNCC Business Office.

Enroll by October 10 at Student Services or by TOUCH, 753-2100.

EDFP 10/2/91

$26 per credit $13 per ½ credit
For more information call 753-2102.

E.D.F.P 10/29/91

NNCC's Elko enrollment rose 12 percent this fall

Northern Nevada Community College's unofficial enrollment figures for this fall show a 12 percent growth at the Elko campus in the past year.

A report by Lynn Mahlberg, director of admissions at NNCC, shows a full-time equivalent of 573 students in Elko as of Oct. 15, compared to 511 students in the fall of 1990. Including NNCC's several branch campuses throughout northeastern Nevada, total enrollment rose from a full-time equivalent of 800 students last year to 827 this year.

"We're going up and up" in enrollment, Mahlberg said.

The enrollment figures kept by NNCC are calculated on a full-time equivalent basis, Mahlberg explained. The full-time equivalent figure is reached by adding all the credits taken by all the students and dividing by 15, considered to be a standard course load for a full-time student.

The full-time equivalent numbers are the figures the University of Nevada uses for funding, she said.

Although the full-time equivalent is up, she said the figures show the total head count in the NNCC district has dropped from 2,598 last year to 2,481 this year. The drop indicates fewer students are enrolling with light credit loads and more are taking a full slate of classes. She added a head count was not available for the Elko campus.

Mahlberg also noted enrollment should increase later this fall due to late-starting classes. Already there have been eight more students since Oct. 15 in Elko, she said.

One of the charts she prepared shows that enrollment has increased from 625 in the spring of 1990 to the 827 this fall.

The enrollment for other NNCC campuses include: 17 at Battle Mountain, compared to 13 in the fall of 1990; eight at the Carlin Conservation Camp, compared to 11 in the fall of 1990; 89 at Ely, compared to 97 last fall, including honor camp and prison enrollments; three in Eureka, compared to none last fall; eight at Owyhee, compared to three last fall; 12 at Wells, compared to eight in fall 1990, including the honor camp; none at West Wendover, compared to five last fall; 112 at Winnemucca, compared to 88 last fall.

Valerie Easterly, director of planning and public information, said the figures are unofficial until the University of Nevada Board of Regents accepts them at its Dec. 5 meeting.

NNCC orientation

EDFP 11/17/92

Orientation and advisement sessions are under way at Northern Nevada Community College for new students.

One session was slated for this morning. Additional sessions are scheduled from 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday and 8 to 10 a.m. Friday.

The first session was held yesterday. They are all being held at the new NNCC Community Center.

"We're committed to serving students of all ages in their quest for transfer education, employment preparation or continuing and community education, and we want to take the worry out of going to college."

said NNCC counselor Phil Smith.

He said the orientation program is designed to help students attain their education goals by providing information and guidance concerning choices available to them.

Another NNCC counselor, Debbie Heaton-Lamp, said each student will be assigned an academic adviser, who is an instructor at the college in the student's field of study.

NNCC's spring semester begins Jan. 21. Late registration continues through Jan. 17.

More information can be obtained by calling Student Services at 753-2102.

E. Ind. 11/5/92

Newe News

By Bernice Lalo

Editor's Note: Newe News does not represent any organization, entity, or group, it is strictly a personal column and should be construed as such. It contains Shoshone information viewed from the writer's viewpoint.

Registration for Northern Nevada Community College is available through Friday. Two classes geared toward Native Americans are: "Two cultures" - team taught by Debbie Heaton-Lamp and Debra Villa (Shoshone), and "Shoshone Language" taught Tuesday evenings 7 - 10 p.m. Although this is a Shoshone language class, the culture will also be explored. Come and join the fun! The class is for three credits. You don't have to be a high school graduate to sign up for this class.

NNCC Student Advisement And Orientation Sessions Set

Northern Nevada Community College begins its new student orientation and advisement sessions this week. Orientation helps the student set educational goals, understand programs of study and degree requirements, learn study skills and plan or manage an academic career.

"We're committed to serving students of all ages in their quest for transfer education, employment preparation, or continuing/community education and we want to take the worry out of going to college. Our orientation program is designed to help the students attain their educational goals by providing information and guidance concerning choices that are available to them," says Phil Smith, NNCC Counselor. "It's important for students to have a working knowledge of our programs of study and academic requirements. It helps them meet the requirements for their majors, plan each semester, and insure the transferability of courses taken."

According to Debbie Heaton-Lamp, NNCC Counselor, "...many older students just returning to school or students who may need only to take a few classes to upgrade their job skills may feel intimidated by degree or certificate requirements or by the idea of having to study for tests again. Our orientation program takes the fear out of returning to school. We'll help you plan your academic goals, learn how to manage your study time, and give you tips on how to study and take tests. Each student will also be assigned an academic advisor. Your academic advisor is an instructor at the college in your chosen field of study who will advise you throughout your time at the college."

Sessions will begin Friday, January 10th, noon until 2:00 p.m. Additional sessions will be held Saturday, January 11th, 10:00 a.m. until noon, Tuesday, January 14th, 6:00 - 8:00 p.m., and Friday, January 17th, 8:00 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.. All sessions will be held in the new College Community Center. For more information, call Student Services at 753-2162. E. Ind. 1/15/92

E. Ind. 1/22/92 NNCC Offers Extended Registration For Two Courses

The Computer Department of Northern Nevada Community College has announced an extension for registration in CIS 250—Introduction to Business Information Systems and OA 218B—Word Processing II.

CIS 250 is an introductory computing course. It meets Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 10 - 10:50 a.m. Cost is $78. Students may contact instructor Larry Hyslop at 753-2305.

OA 218B is a continuation of Word Processing I. The class meets Thursday evenings from 7-10 p.m. and the cost is $93 (includes a $15 lab fee). Prerequisite is OA 501 or instructor's permission. Call Linda Reber at 753-2307 for more information.

Registration period for classes extended

Northern Nevada Community College announced that the registration period for Introduction to Business Information Systems and Word Processing II has been extended through Friday.

Information to Business Information Systems is an introductory computing course that explores six aspects of computing, according to Richard McCarty, chairman of the college's computer department. The course covers the history of computers, hardware, software and management information systems as well as an introduction to BASIC programming and computing careers. The course number is CIS 250. The class meets from 10 to 10:50 a.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and costs $78. Those interested may contact instructor Larry Hyslop at 753-2305 for more information.

Word Processing II will cover sophisticated use of WordPerfect. The class will explore macros, merge function, outlines, tables and math. During the class, students will have a chance to survey the use of fonts, graphics and laser printing.

Instructor Linda Reber said the class is suitable for those who are interested in desktop publishing and computer operators who use WordPerfect on the job. The course meets Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. and the cost is $93, including a $15 lab fee. Prerequisite for the class is Word Processing I. Those interested in the class may call Reber at 753-2307.

E.D.F.P. 1/23/92

Northern Nevada Community College elementary education students, Tracy Beitia, left, and Donna Dolney, look over a course catalog while Lola Riley of NNCC Student Services and Abby Hartman look on. NNCC summer registration closes tomorrow.

Summer registration wraps up tomorrow

Registration is under way at Northern Nevada Community College for the 1992 summer session, says summer coordinator Pat Warren.

Students may register from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through tomorrow at Student Services, Berg Hall. Those unable to register during these hours may call Student Services at 763-2102 to make other arrangements.

Summer fees are $30 per credit. New students pay a one-time, application-for-admission fee of $5. Fees are due at the time of registration.

NNCC has a diversified summer schedule this year that includes college transfer offerings, computer courses, mathematics and developmental English courses for high school students, Warren notes.

Of special interest are two biology courses that culminate in field trips to the Ruby Mountains, an astronomy workshop, a course in "surviving adolescence," office administration courses, physical education courses and dressage and cutting clinics.

Copies of the 1992 NNCC summer schedule are available at NNCC Student Services. In addition, preliminary copies of the fall 1992 schedule are out and the 1992-94 general catalog is available for $2 a copy. Students interested in fall courses can pick up registration forms and register by telephone through Aug. 25.

E.D.F.P. 6/3/92

MINING TECHNOLOGY

Options: Two-Year Associate of Applied Science Degree with an emphasis in either the Engineering, or Metallurgical, or Geotechnical fields.

Costs: $2,000-$2,300 (tuition, books, lab fees)

Financial Aid: Scholarships, grants, veterans and BIA assistance, loans possible. Paid cooperative education and summer work probable.

Program Highlights: Mining works for Nevada and it can work for you too. Many positions await skilled technicians in fields ranging from analytical methods and computers to drafting and surveying. In the Associate Degree in Mining Technology, you specialize in the Engineering, or the Metallurgical (laboratory), or the Geotechnical fields. In the Engineering emphasis you study surveying, drafting, and computing. The Metallurgical emphasis prepares you for work in a laboratory with coursework featuring analytical and assaying techniques, chemistry, algebra, and computers. The Geotechnical emphasis provides education for assisting the geological arm of mining, often in exploration. You learn rock and mineral identification, along with surveying and drafting.

Career Options: There are ample immediate openings for jobs in the mining industry, especially in the assay and metallurgical labs. The laboratory-oriented programs can also be applied to any laboratory situation in any industry. Surveying and drafting background provide opportunities in highway and general construction industries.

P.P.: See the NNCC General Catalog for more details. High school graduates may waive certain general education courses based on excellent high school performance and proficiency tests.

WELDING TECHNOLOGY

Options: One-Year Certificate Program
Two-Year Associate Degree (proposed)

Costs: One-Year Program -- $1,100 (tuition, books, lab fees)
Two-Year Program -- $2,400 (tuition, books, lab fees)

Financial Aid: Scholarships, grants, veterans and BIA assistance, loans possible. Paid cooperative education and summer work probable.

Program Highlights: NNCC trains students to become journeyman welders. The program includes extensive classroom lecture, discussion, and media instruction. Students also spend many hours per week in the well-equipped lab developing welding skills required to be successful. Students must acquire foundations in welding safety, blueprint symbols, weld preparation, and metallurgy. Motor skills are developed in laboratory and field practice in plate and pipe welding and cutting. Plate welding emphasizes the common butt, lap, tee, corner, and edge welds in vertical, horizontal, and overhead positions. Pipe welding prepares learners for pipe template layout and pipe fitting. Standard stick arc, MIG (metal inert gas), and TIG (tungsten inert gas) are the methods used in the program. Students also develop capabilities in oxy-acetylene burning, air arc cutting, and plasma arc cutting techniques.

Career Options: Journeyman welders can command both excellent wages and high mobility. Locally, they have opportunities in mine mechanics, mill mechanics, and in fabrication shops. Nationally, about a half million jobs exist for welders. Manufacturing employs about two-thirds of all welders, who work on everything from boilers to bulldozers, to trucks, to ships.

P.P.: High school graduates may waive certain general education courses based on excellent high school performance and proficiency tests.

MILL MECHANICS

Options: Two-Year Associate Degree

Costs: $2,000-$2,300 (tuition, books, lab fees)

Financial Aid: Scholarships, grants, veterans and BIA assistance, loans possible. Paid cooperative education and summer work probable.

Program Highlights:

Mill mechanics are truly versatile repairers. They install, maintain, and repair industrial plant equipment and structures. Pumps, bearings, conveyors, industrial power transmissions, hydraulics, bulk handling, lubrication systems, structural members -- all these and more are the featured skills areas of a mill mechanic. Mill mechanics (sometimes called millwrights) are employed in a wide range of industrial settings. The NNCC program was developed as a partnership with Newmont Gold Company, and the training is oriented to the area mining industry. But part of each class focuses on skills needed to solve problems in industrial manufacturing facilities and even the home. The lubrication-bearings-seals class is an example of the versatility required of a mill mechanic. Students who complete the class will be able to troubleshoot and repair bearing related failures in a wide range of settings -- from the home sewing machine and family car to the industrial plant with its conveyors, compressors, and crushers. The NNCC mill mechanics program is young, but is expected to be widely acclaimed as an example of excellence in education.

Career Options

High-paying jobs currently await graduates in the Nevada mining industry. Hotels, power plants, and industrial plants all hire mill mechanics for the operation of their facilities. Mill mechanics who are also pipefitters may also work in the agriculture industry.

P.P.:

High school graduates may waive certain technical and general education courses based on excellent high school performance and proficiency tests.

DIESEL TECHNOLOGY

- Options: One-Year Certificate Program
Two-Year Associate Degree
- Costs: One-Year Program -- $900-$1,100 (tuition, books, lab fees)
Two-Year Program -- $2,000-$2,300 (tuition, books, lab fees)
- Financial Aid: Scholarships, grants, veterans and BIA assistance, loans possible. Paid cooperative education and summer work probable.
- Program Highlights: NNCC diesel technology is the only heavy-duty diesel training in Nevada. The program has the backing of heavy equipment and the mining industries. Reviewers from the American Technical Education Association have rated the program "truly excellent." Students learn from highly qualified instructors in well-equipped laboratories. Special vendor training classes supplement classroom and shop learning experiences. High-tech equipment such as engine dynamometers and electro-hydraulic trainers ensure that students train with state-of-the-art educational aids. Computer-assisted instruction, individual tutoring in basic academic skills, and job-site cooperative education complement diesel instruction.
- Career Options: Students who complete the diesel program have a range of career choices in the transportation industry and also in maritime service. Students who complete the one-year program have many entry-level opportunities, including jobs with diesel repair shops and mining companies. Students who finish the associate degree program enhance their opportunities for promotion and mobility.
- P.S.: See the NNCC General Catalog for more details. High school graduates may waive certain technical and general education courses based on excellent high school performance and proficiency tests.

AUTOMOTIVE TECHNOLOGY

- Options: One-Year Certificate Program
Two-Year Associate Degree
- Costs: One-Year Program – $900-$1,000 (tuition, books, lab fees)
Two-Year Program – $2,000-$2,300 (tuition, books, lab fees)
- Financial Aid: Scholarships, grants, veterans and BIA assistance, loans possible. Paid cooperative education and summer work probable.
- Program Highlights: Automotive technology is a challenging and changing field. From Pro-Rally Racing Cars to computer-assisted family vans, to heavy-weight trucks with Cummins turbo-diesels – automotive technicians must know the mechanical mettle and performance of production cars, sports cars, and trucks. First-year students learn automotive basics. In the second year, they begin to use computers to diagnose cars with problems. The NNCC program is the Northern Nevada Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) testing site, and it is also the Automatic Transmission Rebuilders Association (ATRA) testing center. Students can become completely ASE-certified when they complete the associate degree.
- Career Options: Excellent job opportunities exist in almost every city in the nation. Starting pay ranges are good to excellent. Some graduates, however, open their own automotive service businesses. An automotive technician is qualified to work in auto parts stores, as vendor salesmen for such companies as Snap-On-Tools, NAPA, Bear, and Sun Equipment. Some automotive technicians also find good careers in fleet operations with large corporations and government agencies. Automotive dealerships, line mechanics, service writers, shop foremen, and parts specialists . . . the list of employment opportunities goes on.
- P.S.: See the NNCC General Catalog for more details. High school graduates may waive certain introductory automotive courses based on excellent high school performance and proficiency tests.

LABORATORY ASSISTANT (METALLURGY)

Options: One-Year Certificate Program

Costs: $1,000-$1,200 (tuition, books, lab fees)

Financial Aid: Scholarships, grants, veterans and BIA assistance, loans possible. Paid cooperative education and summer work probable.

Program Highlights: The one-year laboratory technician program is a stream-lined version of the two-year Metallurgical degree. You learn in NNCC's metallurgy center. In one year, you can acquire the proficiency to obtain employment in metallurgical or assaying labs. You will have a good start toward quick advancement to supervisory positions.

Career Options: Jobs are plentiful and the pay is excellent.

P.P.: High school graduates may waive certain general education courses based on excellent high school performance and proficiency tests.

NORTHERN NEVADA

COMMUNITY C

NORTHERN

This Schedule up

Class Schedules

28K-97W
10 X 13

EVADA
College

COURSE ROSTER 1992

REGISTER
MBER 18, 1991
JANUARY 17, 1992

Catalog

OFF-CAMPUS NEWS

NORTHERN NEVADA

COMMUNITY

E 14

Center

1991 - 1992

Ely

We're on the move.

NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

FALL 1991

STUDENT ORIENTATION
FRIDAY &
SATURDAY
AUGUST 23 & 24

NACC
EMPOWERING PEOPLE

Coop donates to NNCC - sort of

By STANFORD L. SEMONES
Daily Times Reporter

Mt. Wheeler Director Michael Jensen had to remove the word "donation" from Director Nobuo Nakashima's motion to donate about $22,000 worth of services to Northern Nevada Community College to make the motion comply with policy.

But before the directors unanimously passed the motion at Thursday's meeting of the electric cooperative board, Jensen asked President Brent Eldridge how helping the college was different from donations to the Nevada Cattlemen's Association and the White Pine County Fair and Recreation Board.

"They deal with narrow interests," Eldridge said. "We are no longer giving to special interest groups."

Another difference the president pointed out was the expectation of getting something in return from the college "in the form of a greater load. With a donation, you don't expect anything in return."

Jensen wasn't convinced.

"What about Secret Witness? It's a public service activity as is this," he said. "I have a hard time mentally seeing the difference."

Secret Witness is a countywide program in which residents with information about crimes can dial a number and give information while remaining anonymous.

So Eldridge tried to explain the difference by telling Jensen that anybody could take courses at the college.

"I see Secret Witness as only serving

4-30-92 Ely Daily Times
White Pine County," he said. "If it were system-wide, I could see it."

Mt. Wheeler's service area includes central western parts of Utah, and Utahns pay the same tuition as Nevadans up to six credits per semester.

Joel Munson, director of the college in Ely, said Utahns who want to take more than six credits a semester must pay out-of-state tuition, which is $1,500.

Munson also tried to assure the directors that the college plans to use "a great deal more power" as it grows.

Initially, Mt. Wheeler pledged $10,000 to help the college qualify for a loan from the federal Economic Diversification Administration toward building a $1.865 million facility on land adjacent to land off the U.S. Highway 6 bypass that's leased by the White Pine County School District.

See Coop, Page 8

Coop . . . Cont. from Page 1

The college has passed the pre-application process and must now detail how and from where it will receive donations in its full grant application.

Jim Lewis, manager of Mt. Wheeler's marketing and staff services, described what would be involved in the cooperative's donation.

"We would do something like we did at the Baker School," he said about using ground water heat pumps for the building's heating and cooling needs.

Five heat pumps and 900 feet of trenching per pump were the estimates Lewis gave the directors, but he clarified the actual costs to Mt. Wheeler.

"All we'd have in cost is the backhoe work," he said about the trenching.

A certified contractor has donated his services of insulating the necessary pipes for the heat pumps, and Mt. Wheeler is reimbursed for the heat pumps by Deseret Generation & Transmission, a Utah-based power cooperative.

Although Lewis said the cost was approximate, he said the trenching would cost about $13,500 and the pumps would be about $5,000.

Karen Rajala, director of the local Economic Diversification Council, said 52 percent of the project must be paid for with matching funds.

"Where is the rest of this money coming from?" asked Director Harvey Young.

She said $416,000 will come from a community college foundation, and NNCC plans to raise $165,000.

"The only thing that's not come in yet is the $165,000 that the college has committed to raising," Rajala said.

Munson said his conversations with Magma Nevada Mining Co. representatives have surfaced a need for college-educated employees.

"Their engineers are going to have to have degrees," he said. "If they don't have those degrees, they're going to let them go."

And before Nakashima made the motion, he said, "This is one of the most important projects today and for the future. I don't see how Mt. Wheeler cannot go along with this."

NNCC on 'Fast Track'

Job seekers can get on the fast track to employment, according to Joel Munson, director for the Ely branch of Northern Nevada Community College.

Munson said the college is offering a new program starting Oct. 14, the "Fast Track Clerical Skills Workshop."

The program is geared for students and employees who can't afford to wait several months, through semester after semester, to acquire job skills. "Fast Track is essentially a college semester within a semester," Munson said. "Obviously, it's a very concentrated and demanding schedule. But the student who successfully completes the program can be job ready within two months."

NNCC . . . Cont. from Page 1

During the course, which lasts eight weeks, students can acquire skills in computer word processing, bookkeeping and business correspondence.

NNCC Ely Center decided to implement "Fast Track" after receiving several requests from students and local job placement agencies, Munson explained. He noted many residents fall through the "employment cracks" because they don't have the necessary job skills.

Courses offered in the program include: OA 205 Word Processing (word perfect 5.1), Business 135B (Bookkeeping 1) and OA 1948B (Business Correspondence). Students are not required to take all three courses. However, special "job-ready" certificates will be presented to students who successfully complete the entire program.

Enrollment is limited. Interested students should contact the NNCC Ely Center as soon as possible at 289-3589, he said.

NNCC graduates seven Ely students

4-19-92 Ely Daily Times
Graduation for Northern Nevada Community College students was set for Monday at 7 p.m. at the Elko Civic Center, and among the scores of graduating students, seven of them were from Ely.

All planned to receive two-year associate's degrees.

Roger Davis earned his degree in general studies; David Lee, Richard Patterson and Virginia Lani planned to receive theirs in arts; and Marjorie Hecker, Andrea Jones and Peter Ford planned to receive their degrees in applied science/registered nursing.

The nursing graduates had to travel to Elko for part of their studies, and three of the graduates are inmates at Ely State Prison.

Ely Center

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
May 26, 1992

Contact: Joel Munson/
Wilma Sanford
Ely Center
289-3589

NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE SUMMER REGISTRATION

NNCC summer registration begins May 26, 1992 through June 5, 1992. Classes start on June 8, 1992.

Workshops include, Anthropology, Biology, History, and Art.

There will be classes in English, Math, Nursing, and Computers.

For anyone interested in learning golf, we have a beginners class taught by Harry Johnson.

Registration will be held at NNCC, Ely Center, 685 Lyons Ave, from 8:00am to 5:00pm. For more information call 289-3589.

NNCC opens registration

Registration for the summer semester at Northern Nevada Community College in Ely started today and is scheduled to remain open until June 5.

Instruction begins June 8.

Registration is to be held at the NNCC Ely Center at 686 Lyons

Ely D.T. 5-26-92

Ave. (facing the alley) from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Workshops include: anthropology, biology, history and art, with classes also offered in English, math, nursing and computers. There will even be a class in beginning golf, taught by Harry Johnson.

Rotarians bet 'Monte Carlo Nite' will help NNCC fund

Saturday is "Monte Carlo Nite" at the Ely Elks Lodge.

The Elks hall is being converted to a casino atmosphere, with roulette, craps, blackjack and bingo games providing most of the action.

The event is sponsored by the Ely Rotary Club and is an opportunity to support higher education.

All proceeds from the gaming will go to the Northern Nevada Community College Ely building Fund.

The event doesn't just offer a way to help build an Ely campus for NNCC, it's also an economic way to gamble. The Rotarians are offering $100 racks of chips for $20.

Refreshments also will be served. Patrons must be 21 or older to attend.

Ely D.T. 5-27-92

But there's more ways to win than just on the tables. There will be door prizes, raffles and other drawings.

*Various prizes to be offered include:

*Two nights for two at the Rio Hotel in Las Vegas

*A trip for two to San Diego (three nights and four days)

*High Country Trail Ride

*A side of beef, cut and wrapped

*Dinners for two at local restaurants

*Weekend for two at the Steptoe Valley Inn

*Remington model 720, 30-06 rifle

The doors at the Elks Lodge are to open at 7 p.m. and the gaming will continue through 11 p.m.

New Computers

Ely Daily Times Learning Resources
NNCC
6-2-92

Karen Tempel, left joins Rita Doe, Richard McCarty and Wilma Sanford in showing off the 20 new computers recently installed at Ely's branch of Northern Nevada Community College. Each 386 machine has an 80 MB hard drive and is rated at 14 megahertz. "They're bigger, faster and better than the ones we replaced," said McCarty, who teaches computer classes in Elko, about the $30,000 worth of computers. Sanford is the only one who works at the Ely office.

ESP graduates 62 inmates

Ely Daily Times 6-5-92

Sixty-two inmates at Ely State Prison graduated on May 27 during a 1 p.m. graduation ceremony, said Wayne Reid, the director of ESP Education Department who holds a doctorate degree.

The graduates were either GED recipients, high school graduates or associate arts degree graduates.

On hand to award the associate arts degrees was Dr. Richard McNally, dean of instruction from Northern Nevada Community College in Elko.

The associate arts graduates were Richard Patterson,

Roger Davis and David Lee.

Among those attending the ceremony were school board members from the White Pine County School District as well as Superintendent of Schools Jan Cahill, Associate Warden of Programs Chuck Wolff, Virginia Lani of the White Pine County Library and a news representative from KELY-FM.

Parents and friends of the graduates also attended the ceremony, which was followed by serving of refreshments.

Ely Daily Times, Ely Nevada, Wednesday, July 1, 1992, Page 3

Three Ely students make NNCC dean's list

Northern Nevada Community College has announced the dean's list for Spring 1992.

Students may earn the distinction if they are enrolled for 12 or more credit hours and they complete their classes with an average of 3.5 or above.

From Ely the students are Yvonne Danley, Pauline Hamrick, Tracy Rowley and Roger Davis.

NNCC plans open house

7-20-92

Ely Daily Times

Northern Nevada Community College is planning an open house to celebrate its 25th anniversary.

The open house is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday from 2-4 p.m. each day. Demonstrations of the Tutor Lab, Video Lab and Computer Areas are planned, and instructors will be present to answer questions and help with all educational needs.

The community is invited to share refreshments with NNCC, learn more about the college and view plans for the new campus. The new catalogs are in and will be on sale during the open house.

The college is located at 685 Lyons Ave. in Ely.

Ely NNCC gets $500,000 donation

7-20-92
Ely Daily Times

Ely businessman Norman Goering has donated $500,000 to Northern Nevada Community College's Ely Center.

It is the largest individual donation in White Pine County history, according to the community college director.

"We are ecstatic, overwhelmed, and deeply appreciative," NNCC Ely Director Joel Munson said. "Mr. Goering is a man who has cared about this community for a long time. His generous contribution to Northern Nevada Community College and to education is more evidence of that fact."

Goering's donation will go toward the new NNCC Ely College Campus project currently under development. The college is expected to be the recipient of an $895,000 matching grant from the Economic Development Agency in late summer or early fall. Construction of the first building will begin in 1993 on a 120-acre site at the foot of Ward Mountain. NNCC will name the first structure the Norman Goering Vocational Skills Center.

In addition to Goering's donation, the Ely Executive Committee of the Northern Nevada Community College Foundation has raised nearly $300,000 more for the project. Donations to date total $770,000.

"Our campaign goal is to raise $1.75 million between now and the beginning of winter," noted Margaret Miller-Bath, NNCC Foundation trustee and chairman of the Ely Executive Committee.

"At first, I think we were a little worried about reaching the goal. But due to the tremendous outpouring of support we've received, we're confident we can do it. However, it's going to take everyone's help."

Northern Nevada Community College hopes to construct three buildings on the campus over the next five years. Along with the Norman Goering Vocational Skills Center, NNCC is planning to construct a small business development-education center and a mining and mill technology center.

NNCC, ELY BRANCH: This artist's conception, shown above, shows the proposed Norman Goering Vocational Skills Center. The drawing below, shows the proposed floor plan. Although the final layout may change, NNCC officials say the final plan will consist of the essential elements shown in the drawing.

Battle
Mountain Center

1991-1992

Winnemucca
Center

1991 - 1992

NORTHERN

Northern
Nevada

NNCC adds computerized system for touch-tone phone registration

Humboldt Sun 8-7-91

The Winnemucca campus of Northern Nevada Community College has a new computerized registration system that will allow students to register during a period of two weeks instead of just a couple days.

Registration for fall semester classes will begin Aug. 13 and will continue until Aug. 27.

Students may register with the new system, called Touch Registration by using any touch-tone phone. The process is easy and is explained in the class schedules which will be available at the campus at 395 W. Minor St. on Aug. 12 and sent to all postal patrons on Aug. 13 and published in The Humboldt Sun on Aug. 14.

According to Barbara Tenney, director at NNCC, the idea for the new system is to make registration convenient, especially for those students who cannot get away from work to register.

Local students will undoubtedly find the new system refreshing considering the alternative: waiting in a long line outside.

Students must use a touch tone phone in order to make the system work. Rotary phones will not work nor will those phones with keypads which make a clicking noise.

Students are encouraged to complete the worksheet in the class schedules before attempting to register. The worksheet alerts students to have their social security number, birthdate and class numbers ready.

The worksheet in the class schedule will also show students how to compute total registration fees, how the purchase can be made and where to send it to.

All fees must be paid by 5 p.m. on Aug. 27 or the classes for which they have registered will be removed from the computer.

After Aug. 27, late registration must be done in person and a $5 per day late charge is assessed. Late registration will only be available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 28 and Aug. 29. Classes begin Sept. 3.

There are a few instances where Touch Registration cannot be used. New students will have to fill out a form before they can be entered into the computer. New student forms can be picked up 395 W. Minor St. or requests can be made to have them mailed. Once entered into the computer, students can then register by phone.

In addition, the Touch Registration system will not check for prerequisites, list fees owed, allow registration for more than 18 credit hours without permission, or register students for zero credit community service classes. Also, for students receiving financial aid, they must first contact the school before registering.

The registration number is 1-753-2100. Touch Registration will be available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

For other assistance, students can call the school at 623-4824.

Volunteers work to improve college

Winnemucca Fall 1991 Humboldt Sun

By Mark Swartzfager
Sun Staff Writer

The Humboldt Foundation of the Northern Nevada Community College met last week to discuss ways in which to improve its services here in Winnemucca.

To be implemented will be five new sub-committees that will deal with a variety of concerns brought on by the ever-increasing enrollment and demands put upon the college.

Each committee will consist of approximately six people and will work to improve the following: curriculum and scholarships, legislative action, long term planning, fundraising and programs for the arts, according to Barbara Tenney, director of NNCC.

The foundation is a volunteer organization that is interested primarily in promoting the college. Presently there are 30 members but the organization welcomes new members at any time.

Several new members showed at the meeting last week and heard that Winnemucca is in dire need of a new facility, said Gael McGibbon, part-time business teacher and a member of the foundation.

Assemblyman John Marvel has offered his help. He has introduced a legislative bill that calls for the state to appropriate $1.2 million so a new 8,700 square foot facility can be built on five acres of land adjacent to Lowry High School.

It is unknown if this bill has any chance of passage, but even if it does not, McGibbon said that the legislative committee can work on lobbying for partial funding.

The message given is that something needs to be done.

The school currently enrolls 463 students, most on a part-time basis, but more and more students each year are using the college as a stepping stone for a career, thus seeking to receive a degree.

NNCC offers two-year Associate of Science, Applied Science and Arts degrees.

McGibbon said the school needs to make many changes if students are to not only continue to enroll by the hundreds but if they continue to work toward a degree or certificate.

Currently there are no full-time instructors; instead, there are 35 who serve on a part-time basis and receive what McGibbon says are rather low wages.

"It's community service," she said, in half jest.

The budget is also in need of help. Right now every class needs at least 10 students in order to break even (pay for the costs of the instructor), McGibbon said.

In keeping with the demands of the students, the college, McGibbon said, needs to hire full-time teachers, build a new facility and improve the school's curriculum.

But before much of this becomes reality, alternative funding must be found to supplement any monies appropriated by the legislature.

"We'd like to see some community support with possible matching funds from any government source," McGibbon said.

About four years ago, NNCC asked for a city bond issue but came away empty handed.

NNCC sees increase in fall enrollment; expansion planned

Humboldt Sun 10-2-91

By Nicole Harman
Sun Staff Writer

Northern Nevada Community College has embarked upon one more successful session with an increase in enrollment figures, the addition of several specialized programs and plans for a new building in the fall of 1994.

Barbara Tenney, director of NNCC, has a very positive outlook on the progress of the center.

"The name of the game is change, change, change," she said.

And, indeed, the center continues to expand and change with new courses and higher enrollment. In this session alone, a record number of 774 students enrolled at the college.

Of course, explained Tenney, such a number is a duplicate figure as many people are involved in more than one course, but she estimates that at least 400-450 residents are enrolled in total. Two-hundred new students have also registered with the community college, with 105 involved in the full-time equivalency program.

One new element at the college is a phone registration system designed to ease the influx of matriculating students at registration time. Tenney stated that the system was worked well for the fall semester, but that there "are still glitches to be worked out of it."

The response to the new system has been varied. The people that were successful at registering through the new system loved it. Those with the busy signal were not so enthused. In Elko, four lines were available for registration but it was difficult for people to get through.

The most comical thing, however, according to Tenney, was that many people didn't realize that anything was different and were bewildered as they came to the center because there were no long lines.

By next session, the college is hoping to have a local line so that people will not have to pay long distance tolls and assuredly more people will be informed about the new system so registration will run in a smoother manner.

"This has been an educational program," laughed Tenney.

Specialized Programs
(See NNCC, Page Twelve)

NNCC

(Continued from Page One)

NNCC has tried through its programs to meet the needs of many diverse groups of people. The Single Parent Program is one such effort at aiding a specific group of people.

In total, 12 women are involved in the program and by working jointly with the college and JOIN (Job Opportunities in Nevada) they are able to enroll in school. The women receive Pell Grants from the government to aid with tuition and therefore are required to take a minimum of six credit hours. They also receive help with child care and other necessities for themselves and their children.

Effort is also being made at the Humboldt Conservation Camp to help prisoners take an interest in furthering their education. Two teachers are currently involved with a program there.

A third specialized program is that of English as a Second Language. Approximately 40 people are involved with the program at present, but Tenney said that registration is still open for further participants and that an additional evening course will be offered with increased registration.

If students were involved in the ESL program last year, they need to register this year as well. There is no charge for the classes and students need to bring their alien cards and social security cards when they register.

"All things are going in a very positive, exciting way," stated Tenney.

New Building Proposed

NNCC is currently in the planning stages for a new facility, with a proposed completion date of fall,

Humboldt Sun
10-2-91
1994.

The 1991 Nevada State Legislature granted the community college a two-year planning fund of $91,300 for the new building with a promise that the funding for the building will be appropriated in the following session. It is proposed that the new building will take one year to construct.

Tenney said that a planning committee has been formed and the future building site, five donated acres across from Lowry High School, will be surveyed to begin the necessary building procedures.

Tenney traveled to Reno Monday to choose an architect for the proposed building. One was chosen, but she cannot disclose the name as a contract has not yet been signed.

"We are so pleased," said Tenney. "We'll be able to do a lot of things we aren't able to do right now. It will be a great expansion."

Career Fair opens opportunities; allows students to think ahead

By Chris Bristol
Sun-Staff Writer

Students from several area high schools attended a career information fair Wednesday designed as much to get them to think ahead as to find a career or decide on a college.

"This is a good way for me to get an idea for what the opportunities are, food for thought," said Kerry Brown, a Lowry High School junior.

Representatives from some 40 different organizations — ranging from Nevada and Idaho colleges to the Marines to local mines, utility companies and city businesses — set up shop at the center, handing out all the informational brochures, buttons, stickers and balloons the students could want.

"We have both colleges and companies to give the kids a diverse look at it, because not everybody goes to college," said Rose Tyler, a Lowry High School career adviser.

Nearly a dozen colleges fielded representatives, including the University of Nevada, Reno and Las Vegas, Idaho State University and Boise State University.

Jason Wilson, a Lowry High School senior, said he found the fair useful because it gave him an opportunity to do more homework on some of the colleges to which he is thinking of applying.

"They have a few of the ones here that I'm interested in," Wilson said, "which is nice because you can get an even better idea of what the schools are about talking to their representatives."

Wilson said he would have liked it better if more colleges were represented, especially California colleges. "I can obviously see why they're not campaigning here in Winnemucca," Wilson added with a laugh.

Another college-bound senior, Chad Peters, said he hopes to get an athletic scholarship to help pay for school. Nevertheless, the multi-sport Lowry star said he plans to go to school no matter what, possibly the University of Idaho.

"If I get out of high school and never play sports again that's fine with me," Peters said. "I'm looking for an education first. Sports is just a bonus."

One Lowry senior who is less sure of his future plans, Casey McGarva, said the main benefit of the fair for him was being able to get a wide range of information at just one place.

"You can pick up a lot of different information all at once," McGarva said, adding that he was interested in the opportunities offered by some of the apprenticeship trade schools.

Officer Jeff Dawson was manning the Winnemucca Police Department's table. He said he found himself mostly promoting law enforcement and telling the students what they need to get hired into a police agency and what to expect if they did.

"Ninety percent of the job is paperwork," Dawson said. "I tell these kids that they need good writing skills because a case isn't over until you write the report, and that's the ticket right there."

Dawson said he tells the students one of the best ways to improve their writing skills is to go to college, especially since "nowadays they're saying you need a degree in something."

One of the stand-bys of such career fairs, the armed forces, had several tables stacked out. Archibald
(See Gator, Page Fourteen)

Barbara Tenney gives information about NNCC.

Northern Nevada Community College Student Orientation

New and nearly new students are required to attend an orientation program designed to enhance academic success in college

Exceptions include:

- Students taking fewer than 6 credits
- Students who have completed 4 credits;
- Students enrolled in Community classes only.

Wednesday, Jan.
Sessions at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. &

Choose the session that fits your schedule!
For more information
NNCC at 623-4824

NNCC NORTH NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE
The Humboldt Sun, Winnemucca, Nev., Jan. 10, 1992-5

TIME IS RUNNING OUT

NNCC

Spring Registration deadline is Jan. 13.

Touch Tone Phone Registration forms are in the Spring Schedule.

Late Registration

Jan. 14-17 Walk-in only

winnemucca 92

NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

FINANCIAL AID ADVISING DAY

Tuesday, January 7
10AM - 6PM

Appointment Necessary

CALL 623-4824

NNCC NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

5 W. Minor 623-4824

Humboldt Sun
1-1-92

1-1-92

NNCC denied request to expand its proposed campus near Lowry

3-4-92 Humboldt Sun

By Susan M. Brockus
Sun Managing Editor

With great reluctance, the Humboldt County School District Board of Trustees denied a request Tuesday to grant an additional two acres of land to Northern Nevada Community College.

The property in question is part of a roughly 25-acre parcel located across Klunicy Canyon Road from Lowry High School. The college has already been given five acres of the land for its new campus, but evaluation of future needs indicates that NNCC will need more than that amount — a total of seven to 10 acres.

The college, represented by Warren Scott and Barbara Tenney, had requested an additional five acres of the school district's land at a previous meeting of the school board. Running up against obvious resistance to that proposal, the two returned this week with request for only two acres.

Scott and Tenney presented an architect's rendering of what the future NNCC Winnemucca campus may look like, including six buildings and plenty of parking, all surrounded by naturalized landscaping. They also gave the trustees their first look at plans for the college's first building, a 10,200-square-foot facility that they hope will be ready for use in the fall of 1994.

Scott said the property across from Lowry is ideal for the community's needs, as the college and high school can continue to work closely together. He noted that the college has grown so much to date that students will still need to use Lowry classrooms at night for instruction, even when the new buildings is ready to go.

Donation of additional land by the school district would also be a plus when it comes to qualifying for federal grants, said Tenney. She noted that a value would be placed on the land and any other resources the college has and matching funds could be available for a vocational center for the community.

While trustees agreed that the college's plans look very good, it was also noted that the district already has plans for the remaining 20 acres of its property.

Approximately 12 acres of the parcel, on the south end adjacent to Palisade Drive, is set aside as the site of new elementary school — when it is needed. The remaining eight acres, which lies west of the section donated to NNCC, is slated for expansion of Lowry.

Superintendent Ken Lords noted that the Lowry student body has more than doubled in size since the school was built almost 25 years ago. While there have been two significant additions to the school, future growth could put great pressure on the facility.

He added that Lowry would have to mushroom to a population of 1,500-2,000 students to justify a new high school and the district would have to meet the needs of the students until a new facility could be built.

For that reason, he recommended holding on to all eight acres with to protect the option of future expansion.

Trustee David Cassinelli agreed with Lords, saying "I'd like to see the community college have a nice campus, but I'd hate to make it at our expense."

Trustee Sandy Hammargren noted that the college could be limiting its options by building the campus on such a land-locked parcel.

Scott and Tenney were asked if they had checked the availability of other land in the area.

Scott said they had looked into land owned by the Bureau of Land Management in the area above the high school, only to find that Santa Fe Pacific has the mineral and gas rights to the 40 acres of property available.

He said there are a number of open lots adjacent to the school district property, but the lots are selling in the $5,000 to $10,000 range. Scott added that if the property were in the $5,000 per acre range it might not be a problem.

Scott further said that the only funds that can be spent on land purchase for the college are those raised through community events sponsored by the Humboldt Foundation of NNCC.

(See NNCC, Page Ten)

NNCC

(Continued from Page One)

Cassinelli moved that the board reject the request for an additional two acres, a proposition that died for lack of a second.

Trustee Linda Schrempp then moved that NNCC's request be tabled until the college could undertake further research into what is available in the area. Trustee Rita Backus gave the second on the motion.

"I keep thinking there's someone who's going to donate something or lower the price on those lots out of the goodness of their heart," said Backus.

Schrempp and Backus voted in favor of the motion, with Trustees Cassinelli, Hammargren and Steve Swecker voting against it.

Cassinelli resubmitted his motion, which this time received a second, and was approved by a 4-1 margin, with Backus as the lone dissenter.

The board members emphasized the point that they are supportive of the efforts of the college, but must protect the school district's interests, as well.

Scott told the trustees that things are definitely looking up for the local campus, with it finally making the NNCC Board of Regents' priority list.

"They've finally acknowledged we're in need of a building," he said.

NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

5-1-92
Humboldt Sun

SUMMER 1992 SCHEDULE

CALL#	DEPT	CRS#	SECT#	COURSE TITLE	CRDTS	TIME&DAY	INSTRUCTOR	BLDG	PRICE
02001	BUS	109B	WS9	Business Math	3	SP	Blattman	WCC	$ 90
02002	ENG	243	WT9	Introduction to American Short Story	3	SP telecourse	McNally	WCC	$100
02003	ENG	271	WT9	Introduction to Shakespeare	3	SP telecourse	McNally	WCC	$100
02004	MATH	091	WT9	Basic Math	3	SP Video	Blattman	WCC	$100
02005	MATH	120	WT9	Technical Math	3	SP Video	Blattman	WCC	$100
02006	NURS	140B	WA9	Medical Terminology	2	SP Audio	Smith	WCC	$70
02011	OA	218B	W01	Advanced Word Processing: Word Perfect 5.1	3	T&Th 6-9pm	Myrhow	WCC	$105
02013	OA	218B	W02	Advanced Word Processing: Word Perfect 5.1 - 3 weeks	3	M-F 9am-Noon	Myrhow	WCC	$105
02007	OA	101	WS9	Typing I/Keyboarding	3	SP	Staff	WCC	$105
02008	OA	102	WS9	Typing II/Keyboarding	3	SP	Staff	WCC	$105
02009	OA	108	WS9	Transcribing Machines	3	SP	Staff	WCC	$ 90
02010	OA	131	WS9	Business Machines	3	SP	Staff	WCC	$ 90

CLASSES BEGIN ON JUNE 8 & END ON JULY 31

Walk-In Registration begins May 4!

Humboldt Sun 8-26-92

SIGN UNVEILING - A ceremony was held Saturday dedicating property across from Lowry High School for use as the site of the new Winnemucca Campus of Northern Nevada Community College. Plans for the first building have been drafted and it is hoped funding for the new facility will be secured from the next Legislature, as the project has now been made a priority in the state university system. Shown above at the unveiling are NNCC Humboldt Foundation Chairman Dave Roden, Assemblyman John Marvel and NNCC Winnemucca Campus Director Barbara Tenney. (Sun photo/Nicole Harman)

LECTURES
WORKSHOPS CLASSES

Seminar on Lotus 1-2-3 set at NNCC

A one-credit seminar on financial management and analysis using Lotus 1-2-3 has been scheduled from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 23 at Northern Nevada Community College.

The seminar is designed for owners and managers of retail, service and manufacturing firms. According to seminar spokesmen, the class is presented through a mix of lecture and hands-on training using a case study approach. Each participant will receive a workbook and template diskette and will have access to a personal computer.

Anyone who is not familiar with Lotus 1-2-3, but would like to attend the class should call Tom Lee at the Small Business Development Center before Friday. The phone number for the center is 753-2245.

The deadline for registration is Friday. Anyone interested in attending should contact NNCC student services at 753-2102 to register. The NNCC course number for the class is BUS 299B and the course title is Introduction to Financial Management and Introduction to Financial Analysis. EDFP 8/14/91

Adult high and GED classes start Aug. 26

Elko County Adult High School and General Education Development (GED) preparation program is scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. next Monday.

Any person age 17 or older who has not graduated or is not currently enrolled in a high school is eligible.

The program is free, individualized and competency-based, explains Peggy Duffy, instructor. Students may enter or leave the program at any time in the academic year, August through June. The program is operated through the Elko County School District and Bert Elliott is administrator.

Information on the program is available from either Duffy or from EDFP 8/19/91

Susan Jones at 753-2233. Students also are invited to come to the Adult High School in the Northern Nevada Community College Adult Learning Center during school hours: 8 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday; 1 p.m. to 4, Tuesdays and Thursdays; and 6 p.m. to 9, Mondays and Wednesdays. No appointment is necessary.

Duffy notes students need to be aware of a change in state requirements for an adult diploma. Students graduating after July 1, 1992, will need an additional 2 1/4 credits. For an adult diploma, at least one credit must be earned through the program and the Nevada State Proficiency Examination must be passed.

Three master's degree classes offered in Elko

Three courses are on the fall semester schedule for the master's degree program in Educational Leadership at Northern Nevada Community College through the University of Nevada-Reno.

Beginning Sept. 9, Ron Remington, who is president of NNCC, will teach Administration of Junior/Community Colleges on Mondays from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., according to a news release. The course ends Dec. 16.

Dr. Myrna Matranga of UNR will teach Public Relations for Schools on Fridays from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sept.

13, 14, 27 and 28 and Oct. 11 and 12.

A Public School Finance course will be taught by Dr. David Noonan of UNR on Fridays from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 4, 5, 18, 19 and Nov. 22 and 23.

The UNR classes will be taught at NNCC. Registration fees are $66 per graduate credit hour with an additional delivery fee assessed after the first class meeting to cover travel expenses and per diem for instructors coming to Elko from the Reno campus, according to the news release.

More information is available from Juanita Karr or Pat Warren at 738-8493. EDFP 8/30/91

UNR offers local classes on business

Two business management courses will be taught in Elko by University of Nevada Reno instructors during the fall semester.

According to the university, the Organization and Interpersonal Behavior class will meet from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays, Sept. 4-Dec. 18, at Elko High School, Room J-16.

The course will cover the internal structure of a business organization along with executive roles and functions in the enterprise. The course also will explore the impact of workflow plans, leadership patterns and control systems on human behavior.

The other course, Marketing Principles, is being offered from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays, Sept. 9-Dec. 16, at Northern Nevada Community College. This class will meet in Room 17 of McMullen Hall. Objectives and policies of marketing managers and the influences of consumers will be examined.

The fee for each three-credit, undergraduate course is $147. Students interested in registering or earning an undergraduate degree in business from the university can obtain more information from Juanita Kerr at NNCC, 753-2221.

To register, prospective students can call the university's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800-233-8928. 8/30/91

Business program set at NNCC

Elko's chapter of the American Society of Training and Development will meet from 6 to 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 7 of Northern Nevada Community College's Berg Hall.

Cliff Ferry explained the program will feature Barbara Rocha, a consultant in business communications, writing and public speaking. Rocha, of Palo Alto, Calif., has conducted workshops for Bristol Meyers, the Washington Post, the Federal Reserve Bank and many other companies and agencies. She is in Elko conducting workshops for Independence Mining Company managers and supervisors.

Those interested in participating in the program can contact Ferry at NNCC or Brett Pearson at Independence Mining. EDFP 9/4/91

NNCC class cancellations listed on TV

Classes that have been canceled by Northern Nevada Community College are being listed this week during message times on PBS Channel 32.

Notification of the canceled classes also has been posted on bulletin boards in the Student Services area of Berg Hall and at the Learning Resources Center in McMullen Hall, according to Valerie Easterly, NNCC director of planning and public information.

She says some classes were canceled because they failed to meet minimum enrollment requirements.

Students who find that one of their classes has been canceled may contact Student Services at 753-2102 to obtain information about alternatives, Easterly said. EDFP 9/5/91

'Hawkwatching' field trip set for weekend

A field trip called "Hawkwatching in the Goshute Range" is being offered this week by the biology department at Northern Nevada Community College.

The field trip will take students into the Goshutes, south of Wendover, to watch the hawk migration that passes through each autumn, according to a news release from NNCC.

Students may enroll through Thursday, the date of the first preparatory class. The trip will be Friday and Saturday and will be led by wildlife biologist Pete Bradley.

Further information is available from Bradley at 738-5332 or from Student Services in Berg Hall. The phone number for Student Services is 753-2102. EDFP 9/10/91

College Singers Meet Thursdays

The NNCC College Singers will now meet on Thursdays between 7 and 9 p.m. in Berg Hall.

Although rehearsals began last week, Director Ken Brooks said it is not too late to join the group. They are now rehearsing for their Christmas program said Brooks.

This week, added Brooks, the Singers are voting on whether to continue the "Elijah" project.

In order to join, people are asked to come to the next rehearsal. The cost for the program is a $10 lab fee for music. E. Ind 9/11/91

UNR Offers Project Wild Workshop

The University of Nevada, Reno is offering "Special Topics: Project WILD" (CI487/687) this fall in Elko.

The course will be held September 28 and October 19, Saturdays from 8 to 5 p.m. at the Elko Junio High School, room TBA. The one-credit course fee is $49 undergraduate and $66 graduate credit.

Teachers who wish to incorporate elements of science, ecology, and environmental considerations into classroom teaching will be interested in this course. The nature of the physical environment of Nevada and the impact of humankind's place in it will be explored.

The instructor for the course is Sue Baughman, B.S., a fist and game agent for Gallagher Fish Hatchery.

To register, contact the community coordinator for Elko at NNCC, Juanita Karr, 738-8493, or UNR at 1-800-233-8928.

E. Ind. 9/18/91

Western writer to give two lectures at NNCC

Western writer William Kittredge is scheduled to give two lectures about the Great Basin Sept. 28 as part of a lecture series.

Kittredge's topic will be "The Best That Can Be: A Celebration of Our Past and Future." The lecture will begin at 8 p.m. in Berg Hall at Northern Nevada Community College. Earlier in the day, he will present a workshop on "Lives in Landscape: Writing Fiction for Personal Expression" for writers and would-be writers.

According to a news release from NNCC, the author's evening lecture is open to the public, free of charge, and no reservations are required.

In his talk, Kittredge will share his fascination with cities such as Las Vegas and contrast the cities with small neighboring towns that seem almost 19th century in character, according to the news release.

He also will express his concerns about the tensions between the growing urban centers and the declining rural areas, a phenomenon he calls the "second colonization of the West."

The workshop, which will focus on using western lives and landscape to illuminate the relationship between modern man and his ever-changing environment, will be held from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and will cost $15 per person.

Kittredge grew up in the Owyhee River country on the northern Nevada border and farmed until he was 35. He is now a professor of English at the University of Montana at Missoula.

His writings include Owing It All, a book of essays, and We Are Not In This Together, a collection of short stories. He has co-authored nine novels in the Cord series of westerns and was a co-winner of the Neil Simon Award from the American Playhouse for his work on the script for the movie "Heartland."

In addition, he has been published in several magazines and was co-editor of The Last Best Place: A Montana Anthology. His book-length memoir, Hole in the Sky, is to be published this year.

His lectures are made possible in part by a grant from the Nevada Humanities Committee, a state program of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The 14th annual Humanities Lecture Series also will be presented in Reno and Las Vegas, according to the news release.

EDFP 9/17/91

Workshop on business communications Oct. 8

A business communications workshop on telemarketing, telephone etiquette and stress in the workplace will be offered at Northern Nevada Community College Oct. 8.

The workshop classes are being sponsored by AT&T, the Nevada Small Business Development Center, the Elko Chamber of Commerce and the Northeast Nevada Development Authority.

The classes include:

◆ 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. — Telemarketing: Getting Started — This class will explore the power of telemarketing to positively help businesses in such areas as order processing, field sales, productivity, market expansion and customer satisfaction.

◆ 10:15 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. — Telemarketing: The Professional Sales Call — This class will teach outline scripting, the most professional and effective tool for both inbound and outbound sales calls, according to a news release from AT&T.

◆ 1:15 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. — Telephone Voice and Etiquette — The class will teach proven techniques that make the critical difference between another "ho-hum" exchange and a professional telephone call.

◆ 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. — Dealing With Stress in the Workplace — The class will discuss how stress affects people in their business and personal lives, and provide pointers on how to manage stress.

The workshop begins at 8 a.m. with registration and a continental breakfast in the Berg Hall conference rooms at NNCC and includes a lunch break from 11:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.

Tuition is $25 for any two classes or $35 for the full day of classes. Registration forms are available from AT&T, attention Teri Korte, 2400 Yates Ave., Room 215, Los Angeles, CA 90040 and seating can be guaranteed by calling 1-800-257-0811.

Identical workshops will also be held on Oct. 9 at the Winnemucca Convention and Visitor's Bureau, co-sponsored by the Tri-County Development Authority, and at the Ormsby House Hotel and Casino in Carson City on Oct. 10, co-sponsored by the Carson City Chamber of Commerce.

EDFP 9/21/91

Letter to the Editor

Editor's Note: Opinions expressed in the letters used by the Free Press are those of the writers and do not reflect opinions held by members of the newspaper staff. Only signed letters will be printed; and lengthy offerings (more than 300 words) are discouraged.

Editor:

We want to address this letter to the Elko area public for two related reasons: one, to urge people interested in the literature of the contemporary West to come to the annual Humanities Lecture tomorrow night at Berg Hall, and, second, to publicly thank the sponsoring agency, the Nevada Humanities Committee, for over 20 years of assistance to projects in this area.

Many local groups have benefitted from the guidance and financial help of the Humanities Committee — the county library, the public schools, local governments, the community college, the museum and others. Projects ranging from the Cowboy Poetry Gathering, to audio visual shows of the museum, to children's literature have received both financial assistance and technical help from the agency. Funds have been allocated for countless projects that have enriched the area: funds for a young people's program by the Northeastern Nevada Concert Orchestra, for the development of a Shoshoni textbook, for the residents of Spring Creek in determining the type of government after the development phase. The NHC was a major planner of the Cowboy Poetry Gathering following the famous Buckaroos in Paradise program at Paradise Valley. It has made a major financial contribution annually to the event which has made Elko known nationally and internationally.

The NHC has generously agreed to bring the annual lecture in the humanities to Elko this year for the first time. The lecturer is Bill Kittredge, a major Western writer. Bill Kittredge knows this area well. He spent much of his life in the Owyhee River country of northern Nevada and southern Idaho. Bill, an amiable and easy-to-talk-to writer, gave the keynote address to the first Cowboy Poetry Gathering. Some Elkoans will remember that he appeared at NNCC in connection with the movie "Heartland," a ranch life film.

Bill Kittredge will discuss the third colonization of the West from the point of view of a humanist. We believe that those of you who can come will have a better understanding of our state and the West. And you will be able to meet a genuinely fine writer who sees the West from the perspective of one who grew up in the Great Basin.

Please join us for this lecture on at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Berg Hall on the NNCC campus.

Sincerely,
NNCC's
Humanities Instructors
Cyd McMullen
Nancy Remington
Genie Goicoechea
Richard J. McNalley Jr.

EOFP 9/27/91

Computers Made Simple Windows for Work or Play

Introduction to Microsoft Windows, a user friendly software system that makes computers fun and easy.

Three Monday Night Sessions Oct. 7, 14 and 21.
7-10 p.m. Room 4, Lundberg Hall NNCC

Co-Sponsored by Northern Nevada Community College and
Small Business Development Center

\$13.00 Tuition $\frac{1}{2}$ Credit
$10.00 Material Fee

For Registration Call 753-2102

Class limited to 18 students $5.00 "New Student Fee" for new students at NNCC.

EOFP 10/11/91

Humanities Lecture A —MALE DOGS—

 ELKO COUNTY
 ANIMAL SHELTER
 Lyr and Australian Shepherd

PETS & ANIMALS
 023
 Most sell 14x70 3 bedroom, 1 1/2 bath mobile home on 1 1/4 acres. Asking $34,000 for further info call 738-5886

MOBILE HOMES
 Newly remodeled Fleetwood-Broadmore 14x70 2 bedroom 1 bath. Call 753-6984 after 5 p.m. 02

ELKO AL-ANON
 Meets each Monday - 7:30 at the Elko County Library, Wednesdays - 8:30, 680 River St. (The Alano Club) 738-9633.

For Sale—electric stove, mirrored medicine-cabinet, bathroom vanity, towel racks, ceiling light shade, big box of fabric, 753-6903 02
 For Sale—refrigerator call 738-5929

BRENDA'S
 Wholesale to the public—fresh flowers. We now have a toll free number for your fresh floral needs 1-800-477-BWED delivery available to your area. 02
 Cast Iron Bathtub—will take $55 OBO, Call 738-6638 02
 Sears Kamore washer and dryer for sale. Gold, $350 firm. Call 738-8775 02
 Extra parts, filters, etc for equipment. Call 468-0317 Crescent Valley or 818-352-2000 Sun Valley CA 0-16

Graduates and Instructors of the Fast-Track Clerical Skills Program: (L to R) Vicki Gilliam, Larry Hyslop (instructor), Joan Burum, Carla Barkdull, Dawn Bickford, Luella Cousineau, Glen Tenney (instructor), Elaine Stevenson, Sharon Navratl, Jill Stringfield (instructor).

Fast Track Students Of NNCC Graduate

Northern Nevada Community College is pleased to announce that on October 25, seven students will complete the Fast-Track Clerical Skills Program. The students completing the program are pictured above with their instructors.

The program is an 8 week, intensive training period in which students complete courses in an accelerated format. Classes include: Bookkeeping, Word Processing, Microcomputers in Business, and Office Procedures. English skills are also incorporated into the classes to give students a well-rounded, basic office skills program.

Students receive a certificate upon completion of the program. The grade received in each class is printed on the back of the certificate. Each participant in this Fall's program will complete at least two employment interviews set up through NNCC's Job Placement Service.

Three instructors teach the program classes during both Fall and Spring Semesters and include: Larry Hyslop, Microcomputers in Business; Glen Tenney, Bookkeeping; and Jill Stringfield, Word Processing and Office Procedures. Each class is a three credit class which normally takes an entire semester to complete. In the fast-track program, however, classes meet twice a week for 2.5 hours each during the eight weeks. The classes are open to the public on an individual basis.

The program originally designed to provide employability skills in a short period of time, is a way for participants to update their job skills or obtain new skills. Interested persons should call Jill Stringfield at 753-2288 for more information.

NNCC students finish clerical skills program

Seven Northern Nevada Community College students completed the "Fast-Track Clerical Skills Program" at the college last week.

College officials announced that Louella Cousineau, Joan Burum, Sharon Navratil, Dawn Bickford, Carla Barkdull, Elaine Stevenson and Vicki Gilliam have completed an eight-week, intensive training period of accelerated study. Included in the curriculum were classes in bookkeeping, word processing, using microcomputers in business, office procedures and English skills.

The students will receive a certificate of completion and college spokesmen report that each participant will attend at least two employment interviews set up through NNCC's Job Placement Service.

The fast-track program is offered during both the fall and spring semesters. Each class in the program is a three-credit class, which normally takes an entire semester to complete, but college spokesmen explain that under this special program the classes meet twice a week for 2½ hours so the students can complete the course in eight weeks.

Program instructors are Larry Hyslop, microcomputers; Glen Tenney, bookkeeping; and Jill Stringfield, word processing and office procedures.

College spokesmen report the program offers participants an opportunity to update their job skills or obtain new employment skills in a short period of time. Anyone who is interested in the program may call Stringfield at 753-2288.

EDFP 10/26/91
Northern Nevada Community College students and instructors from the "Fast-Track Clerical Skills Program" are, from left, Vicki Gilliam, Larry Hyslop, Joan Burum, Carla Barkdull, Dawn Bickford, Louella Cousineau, Glen Tenney, Elaine Stevenson, Sharon Navratil and Jill Stringfield.

Great Basin lecture scheduled Thursday

Northern Nevada Community College is scheduled to hold the second lecture in the "Soul of the Great Basin" series at 8 p.m. Thursday in the new college Community Center.

The program, titled "Desert/Paradise: Images of Nevada Landscape," will be presented by Elizabeth Raymond, Reno author and historian. According to college spokesmen, Raymond will examine two sharply contrasting images of Nevada scenery, one positive and the other negative. Her discussion will focus on opposite perspectives found in travelers' accounts, explorers' records and literature.

Raymond currently teaches history at the University of Nevada Reno. She has a strong interest in regional history and has written a number of magazine articles and essays, including "Sense of Place of the Great Basin" and "When the Desert Won't Bloom: Consequences of Environmental Limitation in the Great Basin." Her articles and essays have appeared in Halcyon and Nevada Public Affairs Review. Her newest publication, a biography of George Wingfield, is scheduled to be published by the University of Nevada Press next year.

The Great Basin lecture series is sponsored in part through a grant from the Nevada Humanities Committee.

EDFP 11/4/91

Great Basin lecture set

The last in this year's series of Great Basin lectures is scheduled Friday at Northern Nevada Community College.

The program on the Ruby Mountains is slated to begin at 7 p.m. in the social room of the new Community Center. The free lecture is open to the public.

Mike McFarlane, a physical science and mining instructor at the college, will discuss the geological history of the Rubies and illustrate his talk with slides.

The Great Basin lectures focused on the diverse and rich history of geological events in Nevada, the college announcement explains.

EDFP 11/13/91

Desert/Paradise: Images of Nevada Landscape presented by

Elizabeth Raymond

Dr. Elizabeth Raymond, historian and author, will present the second lecture in NNCC's series titled Soul of the Great Basin, Thursday, November 7, at 8 p.m. in the new College Community Center. Her discourse will examine the two sharply contrasting images of Nevada scenery — one negative and the other positive — that are found in travellers' accounts, in explorers' records, and in literature. Using these two opposite perspectives, she will then suggest ways that they are more similar than they might first appear.

We are indeed fortunate to have a writer with such a strong interest in regional history presenting this lecture in Elko. This interest is reflected in her many Nevada essays particularly, Sense of Place in the Great Basin, and When the Desert Won't Bloom: Consequences of Environmental Limitation in the Great Basin.

Dr. Raymond is currently teaching history at the University of Nevada, Reno. She writes articles for periodicals such as Halcyon and Nevada Public Affairs Review, and her newest publication, a biography of George Wingfield, will be published by the University of Nevada Press next year.

November 7, 1991
8 O'Clock P.M.
College Community Center

NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

presents

A Natural History of the Ruby Mountains

featuring

Mike McFarlane

Friday, November 15, 1991
7 p.m.
College Community Center
Social Room

A Great Basin Lecture Presentation

Culture panel meets tonight

The pilot committee of the Cultural Commission of Northeastern Nevada will meet at 7 p.m. tonight at Elko City Hall, said Nancy Remington, spokesman for the group.

The purpose of the newly formed commission, Remington said, is to provide local residents with the opportunity to experience cultural activities, and to increase the awareness and understanding of artistic and cultural activities.

The committee currently is establishing guidelines for CCNN and the public will have the opportunity to comment on its efforts. Among the issues to be presented are assistance to local groups, selection of commission members, and the status of a support grant.

Those interested in additional information may contact Remington at 738-8493, or Michael Klein at 738-5176.

EDFP 11/21/91

ember 27, 1991 ELKO DAILY FREE PRESS, Elko, Nevada 15

NNCC offers art tour of Scotland, England

Northern Nevada Community College art instructor Sarah Sweetwater is scheduled to conduct a two-week educational tour of Scotland and northern England in June.

The trip, planned for June 14-28, will include a cruise on Lock Ness, a scenic train ride through the land between Fort William and Mallaig and a ferry ride to the Inner Hebridian Isle of Skye, she said.

Those on the tour will also visit Edinburgh Castle, Holyrood Palace, St. Andrews Royal and Ancient Golf Club, Glanios Castle and a Scottish whiskey distillery and see the Lake District, considered one of England's finest national parks, Sweetwater said.

In addition, there will be a visit to Wordsworth's Grasmere, a stay in Liverpool and free time to accompany her on visits to art museums and other cultural attractions.

"I've developed a style of weaving the art, history and customs of a culture into a tour," she said.

Pre-trip classes, including guest lectures, videos and printed materials, will help those signing up for the tour to become familiar with the sites they will visit.

One of the guest lecturers will be NNCC's Jack Smith, a Scotsman who is a professor of history.

"Travel is one of the best investments you can make with time and money. The experiences you accumulate appreciate with time. Your own world expands," said Sweetwater, who has taught art at NNCC for 20 years and guided tours for 14 years.

Cost of the Scotland-northern England tour is $2,528, which includes round-trip air fare from Salt Lake City, rooms for two weeks in England and Scotland, some meals, deluxe motor coach, two college credits, pre-trip classes and Sweetwater's guide skills.

A $200 deposit is required on or before Jan. 13, she said. Further information can be obtained by calling Sweetwater at 753-2228 or 738-5770. A brochure will be mailed upon request.

December 28, 1991

UNR to offer science course

The University of Nevada Reno is offering a workshop on the Nevada Science Project for teachers and other interested individuals next month in Elko.

The course is scheduled for Jan. 10 from 2 to 8 p.m. and Jan. 11 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the science room of Elko High School. The fee is $86 for one college credit.

The course also may be taken for in-service credit at no charge.

The instructor will be Michael G. Robinson, an assistant professor in the curriculum and instruction department at UNR. He will present the philosophical base and objectives of the science project and lead discussions on current ideas about science literacy and the rationale for teaching science literacy.

Curriculum and instructional activities developed by teachers in the project will be presented, and teachers attending the workshop will do those activities after receiving teacher and instructional materials.

To register, contact the community coordinator for Elko, Juanita Karr, at Northern Nevada Community College, 738-8493, or UNR's division of continuing education at 1-800-233-8928. Further information can be obtained by calling the division office at 784-4046.

E, Ind. 11/1/92

UNR Offers Nevada Science Project Course

The University of Nevada, Reno is offering "Special Projective Workshop: The Nevada Science Project" (CI 683) in Elko.

The course will be held Jan. 10-11, Friday from 2-8 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. in the Science Room of Elko High School, 987 College Ave. The fee is $86 for one graduate credit.

This course may be taken for in-service credit at no charge. The instructor for the course is Michael G. Robinson, Ph. D., an assistant professor in the curriculum and instruction department at the university.

To register, contact the community coordinator for Elko, Juanita Karr, Northern Nevada Community College, 901 Elm Street, Elko, NV 89801, 738-8493 or the university's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800-233-8928. For more information, call the division at 784-4046.

Course On Aging Offered

The University of Nevada, Reno, is offering "Aging: An Interdisciplinary Approach" (SW498/698 amd CHS 301/698) in Elko.

The course will be held Jan. 23 - May 7, Thursdays from 4-7 p.m., at the Northern Nevada Community College, 901 Elm Street. The three-credit course fee is $147 for undergraduate and $198 for graduate credit.

Participants in this course will gain an understanding of the theories, methods, policies and programs pertinent to the aged, along with the individual abilities needed to gain insight into the processes of aging and the impact of the "graying" of America on our nation's population, policies, and politics. Experts within the field of aging will be guest speakers.

The instructor for the course will be Gerald Ackerman, M.S., director of the Northeastern Nevada Health Education Center in Elko.

To register, contact the community coordinator for Elko, Juanita Karr, NNCC, 901 Elm Street, Elko, NV 89801, 738-8493; or the university's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800-233-8928. For more information, call the division at 784-4046.

E, Ind 11/5/92

EOPF 11/26/91

(Submitted photo)

Final plans for a four-year business degree at Northern Nevada Community College through the University of Nevada Reno were discussed recently by UNR and NNCC officials. Left to right are: Robert Hoover, UNR academic affairs vice president; Ron Remington, president of NNCC; Don Winne, assistant business school dean at UNR; and Laurie Larwood, UNR business school dean.

Business degrees at NNCC

Beginning next spring, students will be able to earn a four-year undergraduate business degree at Northern Nevada Community College through the University of Nevada Reno.

The new program will add more than $500,000 to the local economy, according to Laurie Larwood, dean of the College of Business Administration at UNR. The boost to the local economy will come through student employment and new positions created to staff the four-year college course, she said.

"Students will no longer have to leave the Elko area to earn a degree. This will help them to remain employed in the Elko area, which means money for the Elko economy," Larwood said.

"This new business degree provides a great service to the people in the northeast area of Nevada. It's generous and farsighted on the part of the university," said NNCC President Ron Remington. "Elko and Northern Nevada Community College welcome this cooperative effort."

UNR and NNCC began looking at the possibility of creating an undergraduate program after launching a master's degree in business in Elko, according to Valerie Easterly, director of planning and public information at NNCC. The first class for that master's program was held in April.

"When the graduate program was launched, many people said they were just a few credits away from an undergraduate degree. As that sentiment grew, we looked for a way to meet people's need for an undergraduate program," she said.

Larwood said the undergraduate program was a "natural outgrowth" of the successful master's degree program.

When the program begins in the spring, two courses will be offered — human resource/personnel management and legal environment, Easterly said. The number of courses offered is expected to increase each semester.

Registration began Nov. 18 for the spring semester and continues through Jan. 17. Early registration is recommended, Easterly said.

E.D.F.P. 1/11/92

UNR spring semester classes planned in Elko

University of Nevada Reno's Division of Continuing Education has scheduled six courses to start in Elko this month. Course credits range from one to three; three of the classes are for teachers, one is concerned with aging and two are in the area of business administration.

"Special Topics: Functional Curriculum for Special Education Students" is a one-credit course slated Friday and Saturday, Jan. 24 and 25, Room 19, McMullen Hall, Northern Nevada Community College. Friday hours will be 4 p.m. to 10; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The course will cover designing a curriculum for students with mild to moderate disabilities; fee is $66 for graduate credit; Mary Ann Demchak, an assistant professor in the university's curriculum and instruction department, will be the instructor.

"Special Topics: Reading and Writing in the Content Areas" will be held the same hours and dates in Room 18 of NNCC's McMullen Hall. The course will teach reading and writing strategies and is recommended for fourth through 12th-grade teachers. The one-credit course fee is $66 for graduate credit; Meggin McIntosh, an associate professor at UNR will instruct.

"Seminar in College Teaching" is slated Jan. 27 through May 11, Mondays from 4 p.m. to 7 at NNCC. Course topics include teaching, theories of learning, modern technology in teaching, evaluation and measurements and social foundations of higher education. Course fee is set at $198; Clifford Ferry, director of curriculum and instruction at NNCC, will be the instructor.

"Aging: An Interdisciplinary Approach" is scheduled Jan. 23 through May 7, Thursdays from 4 p.m. to 7, at NNCC. The course announcement says participants "will gain an understanding of the theories, methods, policies and programs pertinent to the aged, along with the individual abilities needed to age successfully. Participants will also gain insight into the processes of aging and the impact of the graying of America on our nation's population, policies and politics." The three-credit course fee is set at $147 for undergraduate and $198 for graduate credit. Course instructor will be Gerald Ackerman, director of Northeastern Nevada Health Education Center in Elko, with speakers from "within the field of aging."

"Legal Environment" is slated Jan. 23-May 7, Thursdays from 7 p.m. to 10 at NNCC. The course will discuss the nature and function of law with special emphasis on environmental law. It can be credited toward a bachelor of science degree in business administration with a major in management. Fee will be $147 for three undergraduate credits. Instructor will be Elko attorney Robert Wines, who practices general civil law.

"Human Resource/Personnel Management" is planned Jan. 22 through May 13, Wednesdays from 7 p.m. to 10 at NNCC. The course will emphasize personnel processes and productivity and review legislation dealing with manpower and labor relations. The course credit can be applied toward a bachelor of science degree in business administration, major in management. Fee for the three-credit, undergraduate course will be $147; Thomas Fenger, employed in the field of healthcare management, will be instructor.

Students may register for the classes with UNR's community coordinator, Juanita Karr, at Northern Nevada Community College, 738-8493; or UNR at 1(800) 233-8928. Further information on the courses is available from the division office in Reno, 784-4046.

have an orientation meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Beg Hall Conference Room. Skiing will start Saturday and go from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. More information is available by calling 738-8493.

NNCC cross county ski class will

EDFP 1/21/92

UNR offering course on contemporary literature

A course called "Studies in Contemporary American Literature" is being offered by the University of Nevada Reno at Northern Nevada Community College.

The course is scheduled to begin Feb. 4 and continue through May 12 on Tuesdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the conference room at NNCC. The three-credit, undergraduate course, English 486, costs $147.

According to a news release, the course will cover cross-generic studies in American literature written since World War II. Authors to be read and discussed will include Ralph Ellison, John Updike, Toni Morrison, Leslie Silko and Richard Hugo.

The instructor will be Lois Sargent, who has had more than 30 poetry and fiction works published. Her area of concentration is contemporary American fiction.

To register for the class, contact Juanita Karr at NNCC, 738-8493, or UNR's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800-233-8928. For more information, call the division at 784-4046

Two UNR courses set for master's program

Two courses for the University of Nevada Reno's master's degree program in educational leadership are scheduled for the spring semester in Elko.

The first course, EL 752, Seminar in College Teaching, is scheduled Jan. 27, in the conference room at Berg Hall on the campus of Northern Nevada Community College. 27.

Instructor Cliff Ferry will provide an overview of college teaching, including the fundamentals of course planning, methodologies of college teaching, characteristics of learning theories and assessment of learning.

Students will learn new skills for teaching adults and will have the opportunity to investigate a topic of interest in the field of college teaching.

The second course, EL 712, History of Education, is scheduled from 4 p.m. to 10 Fridays and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays on the following dates: Feb. 21-22, March 6-7 and March 20-21 in Berg Hall.

This course will focus on the development of educational thought and practice in Western civilization from Plato to Montessori.

UNR instructor Gary Peltier also will include a film series as an extra feature of the course.

Students may register on the first day of each class. The classes are three credits each and cost $66 per credit. Interested students may call Pat Warren or Juanita Karr at 738-8493 for more information.

EDFP 1/18/92

Great Basin Lecture Series Continues Monday

Northern Nevada Community College will present the first spring lecture in The Soul of the Great Basin Series Monday, Jan. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the College Community Center. "The public is invited to hear a talk by Kim Stafford, director of the Northwest Writing Institute and well-known author," explains Nancy Remington, coordinator for the series. "Mr. Stafford's lecture, titled Hunting in the Desert Before Columbus, will delight those who love the Great Basin desert — and provide new insights into the relationship between human beings and the landscape."

The public is invited to discover how Mr. Stafford "interviews" the desert, and learn to feel at home in a "difficult place." Mr. Stafford maintains that the desert is hospitable to the human spirit in a way the city is not and that it "will help you explore what happens there when one listens to wind, watches the horizon, and waits for rain."

Kim Stafford grew up in Oregon, Iowa, Indiana, California, and Alaska, following his parents as they taught and traveled throughout the west. He has taught at Lewis and Clark College since 1979, where he directs the Northwest Writing Institute, and teaches courses in ethnographic and environmental writing and in lyrical prose. Through the Institute, he assists writers and writing teachers with many imaginative seminars. His publications include Entering the Grove (a book of essays in celebration of trees); Having Everything Right; Essays of Place; Places and Stories (a collection of poems); Rendezvous: Stories, Songs, and Opinions of the Idaho Country (a collection of folklore); and the forthcoming Lochsa Road: A Pilgrim in the West (a travel essay). He has received creative writing fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts; and his book Having Everything Right, won a Western States Book Awards Citation for Excellence in 1986. He holds a Ph.D. in medieval literature from the University of Oregon, and currently resides in Portland.

The Soul of the Great Basin Series is made possible in part by the Nevada Humanities Committee, the state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. E. Ind. 1/22/92

Literature Study Offered

The University of Nevada, Reno, is offering "Studies in Contemporary American Literature," in Elko.

The course will be held Feb. 4-May 12, on Tuesdays from 6:30-9:30 p.m., in the Conference Room at Northern Nevada Community College. The three-credit course fee is $147 for undergraduate credit.

This course covers cross-generic studies in American literature since World War II. Authors to be read and discussed will include Ralph Ellison, John Updike, Toni Morrison, Leslie Silko, and Richard Hugo.

The instructor for the course will be Lois Sargent, M.A., who has over 30 publications in poetry and fiction. Her area of concentration is contemporary American fiction.

To register, contact Juanita Karr at NNCC, 901 Elm Street, Elko 89801, phone 738-8493, or the university's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800-233-8928. For more information, call the division at 784-4046. E. Ind. 1/22/92

College Singers Meet Thursday

The NNCC College Singers begin rehearsals Thursday, January 23, for their spring concert. Singers are needed in all four vocal ranges and all are welcome.

Director Ken Brooks also reported that no auditions are held and any interested singers are urged to come and have a great time. Registration for credit is not required to participate in the group, although a $10 fee is requested to cover costs of music for each semester.

Rehearsals are held in Berg Hall on the NNCC campus from 7 to 9 p.m. every Thursday.

UNR Offers Spring Courses

The University of Nevada, Reno, will offer two courses in Elko during the Spring Semester for the Master's Degree Program in Educational Leadership. E. Ind. 1/22/92

The first course, Seminar in College Teaching (EL752) will be held Mondays, from 4-7 p.m. in the Conference Room in Berg Hall. The instructor will be Cliff Perry, Ph.D., who will provide an overview of college teaching, which will include: fundamentals of course planning, methodologies of college teaching, characteristics of learning theories, and assessment of learning. Students will learn new skills for teaching adults and will have the opportunity to investigate a topic of interest in the field of college teaching.

The second course, History of Education (EI712), will be held Fridays, from 4-10 p.m.; and Saturdays, from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. on the following dates: Feb. 21-22, Mar. 6-7, and Mar. 20-21, in Berg Hall, Room 7. This course will focus on the development of educational thought and practice in Western civilization from Plato to Montessori. UNR instructor Dr. Gary Peltier promises an excellent film series as an extra feature of the course to help "flesh out" the historical period under study.

Students may register at the first day of the class. Both classes are three credits each, with a cost of $66 per credit. For more information, please contact Pat Warren or Juanita Karr at NNCC, 738-8493.

6 ELKO DAILY FREE PRESS, Elko, Nevada Wednesday, February 12, 1992

UNR short courses to be held at NNCC

The University of Nevada-Reno is slated to offer two short courses at Northern Nevada Community College this semester, according to Connie Armstrong, UNR information director.

"History of Education" is a three-credit, graduate-level course designed to give the student an understanding of the development of educational thought and practice in Western civilization from Plato to Maria Montessori, according to Armstrong.

Gary L. Peltier is slated to teach the course. It will be held Feb. 21 and 22, and March 6, 7, 20 and 21. The fee is $198.

"Teaching Writing Throughout the Curriculum" is a one-credit, undergraduate or graduate course designed to teach students how to write well.

Janet Bohart will teach the course, which is slated to be conducted Feb. 21 and 22. The fee for the course is $49 for an undergraduate credit and $66 for a graduate credit. A $30 conference fee is also required. The course may be taken for in-service credit for a $40 conference fee.

Additional registration information may be obtained by contacting Juanita Karr, community coordinator for the courses, at 738-8493; Armstrong at 1-784-4046; or UNR's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800-233-8928.

(Robert Miller photo)

Kim Stafford, well-known author from Oregon, is scheduled to speak at Northern Nevada Community College Monday night.

Great Basin lecture set Monday at NNCC

Northern Nevada Community College officials are slated to present the first spring lecture in "The Soul of the Great Basin" series at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the college Community Center.

The lecture, titled "Hunting in the Desert before Columbus," will be presented by Kim Stafford, well-known author and director of the Northwest Writing Institute. Nancy Remington, series coordinator, said "Mr. Stafford's talk will delight those who love the Great Basin desert and provide new insights into the relationship between human beings and the landscape."

Stafford grew up in Oregon, Iowa, Indiana, California and Alaska. He has taught at Lewis and Clark College since 1978, where the institute is located. He teaches courses in ethnographic and environmental writing, and in lyrical prose.

His publications include "Entering the Grove," a book of essays in celebration of trees; "Rendezvous: Stories, Songs and Opinions of the Idaho Country," a collection of folklore; and a forthcoming travel essay entitled, "Lochsa Road: A Pilgrim in the West."

He has received creative writing fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts and his book "Having Everything" won a Western States Book Awards Citation for Excellence in 1986. He holds a doctorate in medieval literature from the University of Oregon and resides in Portland.

The public is invited to attend the lecture, which is sponsored by the Nevada Humanities Committee, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Northern Nevada Community College and the Nevada Small Business Development Center present a hands-on class:

INTRODUCTION TO LOTUS 1-2-3

- learn basic spreadsheet concepts.
- prepare forecasts & financial statements
- format and print using the spreadsheet
- learn spreadsheet database and graphics features

Dates: February 26 - March 25 Wednesdays
 Time: 7-10 p.m.
 Place: NNCC LH4 (computer room)
 Cost: $26.00 1cr (+$5.00 one-time new student fee)
 $ 5.00 lab & materials fee
 Instructor: Karen Temple

Class size is limited to 20 students, for registration or further information please call student services 753-2102.

 E.I.D.F.P. 2/14/92

NNCC Offers Three Short Art Courses

ELKO, NEVADA— The Art Department of Northern Nevada Community College will offer three short courses in March and April featuring basketry, paper making, and graphic design.

Local artist Carys Hamer will offer two classes: ART 299B— Twined Basketry and ART 299B— Handmade Paper and Marbling. The basketry course will explore the traditional techniques of rib, wicker, and twined basketry for beginning and advanced basket-makers. Random weave will be demonstrated and participants will complete a traditional basket or create a personal design. Reed will be the primary work material, however students are encouraged to bring additional materials for experimentation. By the end of class, students will have created a vegetable/fruit basket and a garlic basket. Cost for the 1/2-credit course is $13 (materials are not included). The course will meet in the NNCC Art Barn for three weeks beginning Tuesday, March 3 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Hamer's Handmade Paper and Marbling class is a popular NNCC offering. Students will learn to create beautiful cards, stationery, or desktop accessories during this two-part workshop held Friday, March 6, 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, March 7, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Part I of the workshop will focus on making handmade papers from natural and local plant materials, forming it into sheets, and moulding and casting the product into boxes or containers. Part II introduces the ancient art of paper marbling and participants will decorate the papers created in part I. The workshop will meet in McMullen Hall, room 12. Cost for the 1/2 credit course is $13 (supplies not included).

Graphic designer Ronda Fogo of Salt Lake City returns to Elko April 3 and 4 to offer ART 299B or GA 288B— Designing a Graphic Logo. Participants will develop a logo for personal or business use with the following step-by-step approach: analysis of a client's business using fact-finding techniques, conceptual thinking, development of rough comps, and preparation of a product ready for print. Some information on type will be provided, but the focus will be on the symbol of the logo. The workshop will meet Friday, April 3, 7 to 10 p.m. and Saturday, April 4, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in McMullen Hall, room 12. Participants will also complete a project within two weeks following the class that will be individually reviewed by Ms. Fogo. Cost for the 1-credit workshop is $26.

Students may register for any of the three courses at Students Services, Berg Hall. For more information regarding the class call the NNCC Art Department at 753-2228.

E. Ind. 2/28/92

E, Ind. 3/11/92

Adult Literacy Workshop

The ECL Adult Literacy Program will hold two inservice workshops. The first one is Thurs. March 12, from 8-9:30 p.m. in the Library Conference Room. Our trainer, Lou Schaffer of the Northern Nevada Literacy Council will give interested volunteers and certified tutors an introduction to the Challenger series. This series takes the Adult New Reader from the beginning stages of reading to the critical reading, writing and reasoning skills associated with the 6th-9th grade level student. There is a $5.00 materials fees.

The second workshop is on Saturday, March 14, from 9-12 p.m., also in the Library Conference Room. The first hour will be a group discussion to share information and experience about the Literacy Program. Then from 10-12 p.m., Cyd McMullen of the NNCC English Dept. will guide us in the use of Journal Writing. This is an excellent tool to use for developing the reading, writing, thinking connection for the lifelong learner. This workshop is free and is open to Tutors, Students and the public. For more information, call: Adrienne Hall 738-3066.

Gun Course

Northern Nevada Community College will offer a course in "Basics of Personal Protection - A practical handgun course," starting Monday, April 27 from 7 to 9 p.m. The class will run Monday through Friday with a morning session on Saturday, May 2, from 9 a.m. until noon.

Since many responsible citizens are buying handguns to protect themselves, this course will provide a practical understanding of handguns and the fundamentals of shooting them. The course does not teach tactics or the use of deadly force and its legal aspects. The Elko County Sheriff's Department Staff and NRA certified instructor Bob Call extend a special invitation to women to enroll. A guest lawyer will also speak on firearms and the law.

Class size is limited to 20 students. Students must be 21 years or older and should register by March 28th. The $5 registration fee includes student handbooks. "You do not need to own a handgun to participate in class," said Call. To register, call Pat Warren at NNCC 738-2231. E, Ind. 3/18/92

Trimble To Lecture

Northern Nevada Community College continues its celebration of the Soul of the Great Basin this week with visiting author/photographer Stephen Trimble. Mr. Trimble will present a Friday evening lecture/slide presentation, 7:30 p.m., at the Northeastern Nevada Museum. The presentation is titled The Sagebrush Ocean: A Naturalist's Vision of the Great Basin. The public is invited to attend.

On Saturday, March 14 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Mr. Trimble will conduct a writing workshop. The workshop is designed specifically for writing teachers of all levels and for science teachers interested in integrating more writing into their curriculum. Optional college credit is available, contact Pat Warren at 753-2231 for more information.

Stephen Trimble grew up while roaming the West with his geologist father. He also worked as a park ranger/naturalist in Utah and Colorado, completed graduate work in ecology at the University of Arizona, and served as editor and publisher at the Museum of Northern Arizona Press. His award-winning books on western national parks and wilderness include The Bright Edge: A Guide to the National Parks of the Colorado Plateau.

3-11-92

E DFP

NNCC event focuses on naturalist's vision

Northern Nevada Community College is slated to continue its celebration of the "Soul of the Great Basin" this week with a lecture and slide presentation by author and photographer Stephen Trimble.

The presentation, titled "The Sagebrush Ocean: A Naturalist's Vision of the Great Basin," is scheduled to be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Northeastern Nevada Museum.

Trimble also will conduct a workshop from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. He will focus on nature writing as a way to link literature with essay writing, and how the personal and the scientific can be combined. The workshop is designed specifically for writing teachers and for science teachers interested in integrating more writing into their curriculum. Four college credits are available. Those interested may contact Pat Warren at 753-2231 for information.

Trimble grew up roaming the West with his geologist father. He also worked as a park ranger and naturalist in Utah and Colorado and completed graduate work in ecology at the University of Arizona. He currently resides in Salt Lake City.

His award-winning books on western national parks and wilderness include The Bright Edge: A Guide to the National Parks of the Colorado Plateau. Among his other books are Longs Peak: A Rocky Mountain Chronicle; Canyon Country; Blessed by Light: Visions of the Colorado Plateau, and Talking with Clay. Trimble's Sagebrush Ocean, recently published by the University of Nevada Press, is a study of the Great Basin.

The programs have been made possible by a grant from the Nevada Humanities Committee.

Writing Instruction Course

The University of Nevada, Reno is offering "Teaching Writing Throughout the Curriculum" (CI487/687) in Elko.

The course will be held March 20-21, Friday from 4-10 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m., at Elko Junior High, 777 Country Club Dr. The one-credit course fee is $49 for undergraduate and $66 for graduate credit. A $30 conference fee is required in addition to university tuition for this workshop. The workshop may be taken for inservice credit for a $40 conference fee only. For information, contact the Northern Nevada Writing Project at (702) 353-5700, ext. 259.

The instructors for the course are Gaye Momerack and JoAnne Kimball, of Reno.

To register, contact the community coordinator for Elko, Juanita Karr, Northern Nevada Community College, 901 Elm Street, Elko, NV 89801, 738-8493 or the university's division of Continuing Education at 1-800-233-8928. For more information, call the division at 784-4046.

E, Ind. 3/18/92

UNR Offers Course on Project Wild

The University of Nevada, Reno is offering "Special Topics: Project WILD" (CI 487/687) in Elko.

The course will be held March 28 and May 2, Saturdays from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m., in the Library of Elko High School, 987 College Avenue. The one-credit course fee is $49 for undergraduate and $66 for graduate credit.

This hands-on experience is of particular interest to science teachers or other teachers who wish to incorporate elements of science, ecology, and environmental considerations into the classroom.

The instructor for the course is Sue Baughman, B.S., a wildlife management specialist.

The register, contact the community coordinator for Elko, Juanita Karr, NNCC, 738-8493.

E, Ind. 3/18/92

Saturday, March 21, 1992 ELKO DAILY FREE PRESS, Elko, Nevada 9

Seminar on attitude draws record turnout

A record 155 people turned out for the "Is Your Attitude Showing?" seminar presented in Elko by professional speaker and trainer Donna Hartley.

The turnout far exceeded expectations, said Debbie Smith, executive director of the Northeast Nevada Development Authority (NENDA).

The seminar, sponsored by NENDA, the Small Business Development Center, Elko Chamber of Commerce and Northern Nevada Community College, focused on the importance of having a positive attitude in the workplace.

"Did you jump out of bed this morning and say 'I can't wait to go to work?'" Hartley asked those in attendance. If not, she said, "Your attitude is showing."

Smith said Hartley reported research shows 87 percent of a person's job is attitude, 13 percent is skill. Therefore, an employee's attitude makes the difference between a company's profit and loss.

Effective customer service is the key to a company's success because 68 percent of customers go elsewhere due to poor customer service, Hartley said.

She said working with difficult customers can affect an employee's attitude, but that person should realize that the customer may be irritated with something unrelated to the company.

She said employees should keep in mind that a customer's attitude is not a reflection or result of an employee's actions. Positive attitude can turn a bad situation to good, she added.

Hartley, who is a communication specialist and founder and owner of Hartley International, said confident body language and voice quality directly relate to how a person is perceived.

Positive body language tips listed in her booklet included: moving slightly forward and back again, not rocking left to right; smiling, being animated and expressive, not too serious with no expression; and making direct eye contact instead of focusing on written material.

She also said arms should be relaxed slightly and hands used to animate and illustrate. She said don't put hands behind the back or on the hips while talking.

Phone etiquette is also important, Hartley said.

Smiling when speaking on the telephone is recognizable and conveys enthusiasm to the caller, she said.

Other phone tips included: clearly state the company's name, the department and your name; answer before the fourth ring; lower your voice; pause effectively; and be prepared to write down messages.

Hartley also presented tips on stress management such as positive self-talk, goal-setting, regular exercise and a sense of humor.

(Debbie Smith photo)

Donna Hartley speaks to her Elko audience at the "Is Your Attitude Showing?" seminar at Northern Nevada Community College.

Spring Seminars

featuring

Issues Concerning Young Adults

sponsored by

The Elko County
Mental Health Association

Northern Nevada
Community College

DOES YOUR RESUME NEED WORK?

I CAN TELL BY YOUR RESUME, EVE, WE HAVE SOMETHING IN COMMON ... MY KIDS LIKE PEANUT BUTTER, TOO.

NNCC's
Small Business Development Center &
The Job Placement Center are presenting a

"RESUME WORKSHOP"

Friday, April 3, 1992
1 - 4 pm
Lundberg Hall, Room 3

Bring all available professional and personal information so a workable resume can be developed and printed in the computer lab.

To attend, contact:
Tom Lee, 753-2245
Barbara Thompson, 753-2255

No cost to attend!

*"The most important thing we can do is to dig into the places we live.
That is the true meaning of home."*

Northern Nevada Community College presents

An Evening with Terry Tempest Williams

featuring a reading from her recent book

*Refuge
An Unnatural History of Family and Place*

Wednesday, April 8, 1992
7:30 p.m.
College Community Center

*Optional credit (1/2) is available for additional Thursday workshop hours.
Contact Pat Warren, 753-2231 for more information.*

 This program has been made possible with assistance from the Nevada Humanities Committee. **

E. Ind. 4/8/92
Great Basin
 Lecture Tonight

Northern Nevada Community College concludes its year-long celebration of the Great Basin tonight. The final presentation in the series features author Terry Tempest Williams, described by Newsweek Magazine as "one of the West's most striking new writers" and included her in its "Who's Who" of 20 future leaders in the region. The public is invited to attend the April 8, 7:30 p.m. presentation in the College Community Center.

Williams will present a reading from her recently published memoir Refuge, An Unnatural History of Family and Place. She states, "The Premise of Refuge is that an intimacy with the natural world initiates an intimacy with death, because life and death are engaged in an endless inseparable dance." This moving work deals with the connections between family and place—a natural history of an ecological phenomenon paralleled by her participation in her mother's battle against ovarian cancer. The book is a collection of 37 brief essays that deal with the natural history of the major bird populations inhabiting the refuge, the denigration of the habitat, and the subsequent effect

4-8-92 E D F P
Great Basin
 lecture tonight

Terry Tempest Williams, a Salt Lake City naturalist and writer, is scheduled to present the concluding Great Basin Lecture at 7:30 this evening in Northern Nevada Community College's community center.

She is slated to present a reading from her recently published memoir, Refuge, An Unnatural History of Family and Place.

"Financing Your Business In Nevada"

SEMINAR

A half day seminar is scheduled for Friday, April 17, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon at NNCC in Berg Hall, Rooms 8 & 9. Registration is at 8:00 a.m. The cost is $10 for members of NENDA and the Elko Chamber of Commerce and $15 for non-members. Pre-register by calling NENDA at 738-2100.

Topics include: Small business loans/Loan guarantee programs for rural communities/Intermediary Relending Program (IRP)/Gap financing/Micro Loans.

Sponsors

- North East Nevada Development Authority (NENDA)
- Nevada Small Business Development Center
- Elko Chamber of Commerce
- Nevada Commission on Economic Development
- Northern Nevada Community College

E. Ind. 4/15/92
Dressage Clinic Offered

Northern Nevada Community College will present a Dressage and Jumping Clinic on Saturday, April 25, and Sunday, April 26, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at Suzie Creek Arena located 8 miles west of Elko off I-80. A professional trainer from Boise, Idaho, the instructor Ernie Herrmann competes in three-day eventing which is a combination of dressage, stadium jumping, and cross country jumping. Herrmann is a former rider with the famous Vienna Riding School, home of the white Lippizan stallions.

Students attending the clinic will learn the basics of classical dressage. A variety of horses from jumpers to cutting horses benefit from the supplying exercises taught by Herrmann. There will also be a session for hunters and jumpers. Students must register at the college by April 15. Cost for the clinic is $25.00 per day with no charge for spectators. Please call Pat Warren at 753-2231 for more information.

E. Ind. 4/15/92
EDFP 4-29-92
NNCC to show film series about women

Northern Nevada Community College will be presenting a film series beginning Monday as part of an observance of Women's History Month.

All four films are scheduled to be shown at Berg Hall, and their screening is being sponsored by the NNCC Status of Women Committee.

The first film, "You are the Game: Sexual Harassment on Campus," is scheduled to be shown at 7 p.m. Monday and again at noon Tuesday.

According to a press release, this film dramatizes the situations of two female college students who have experienced different forms of sexual harassment. And a follow-up discussion provides insight into broader sexual-harassment issues.

The second film, "Killing Us Softly," will be shown at 7 p.m. Monday, March 9, and again at noon Tuesday, March 10. This movie is on the psychological effect advertising has on the image of women.

The third film, "Miss ... or Myth," will be shown at 7 p.m. Monday, March 16, and at noon March 17. It examines beauty pageants and the images of women they promote. The news release said both sides of the issue are presented.

"Family Gathering" is the fourth and final film in the series. It will be shown at 7 p.m. Monday, March 23, and at noon March 24. This movie is an Academy Award nominee for best documentary, short subject, and is on a Japanese-American family's experiences during World War II, including internment by the U.S. government.

E. Ind. 4/15/92
Course looks at business environment

University of Nevada Reno will offer "Changing Environments of Business" this summer at Northern Nevada Community College. The three-credit business course (BA 772) will meet from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays May 29 and 30; June 12, 13, 26 and 27, July 10, 11, 24 and 25. Fee is $207 for graduate credit.

The course will focus on the legal, ethical, cultural, economic, political and global environment.

Instructor is Don Winne, J.D., an associate dean in UNR's College of Business Administration.

For registration information, contact Elko coordinator Juanita Karr at 738-9493, or UNR's Division of Continuing Education at 784-4046 or 1-800-233-8928.

NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

901 Elm Street
Elko, Nevada 89801

Student Services

(702) 738-8493 • FAX 738-8771
1-800-343-2724

May 15, 1992

MEMORANDUM

TO: ADMINISTRATION AND STAFF
FROM: STUDENT SERVICES
Stan Aiazzi, Dean

SUBJECT: CATALOG SALES

The administrative council approved selling catalogs this coming school year. It is my feeling that the college handle this in the following manner:

Faculty will be given several copies and will be allowed to give one copy to each student that comes in for academic advising. Remember, this will be the first year that an active academic advising plan is fully organized and implemented. It will be an added incentive for students to get advisement.

Catalogs will cost $2.00 each and will be sold in the bookstore, the controller's office, and student services.

All mail requests for catalogs will be sent free.

NNCC
EMPOWERING PEOPLE

A Member College of the University of Nevada System

NORTHERN NEVADA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

901 Elm Street
Elko, Nevada 89801

Student Services

(702) 738-8493 • FAX 738-8771
1-800-343-2724

M E M O R A N D U M

TO: Faculty and Program Coordinators

FROM: Student Services
Stan Aiazzi, Dean
Student Services

DATE: May 15, 1992

RE: Lab Fees

In the development of the Fall 1992 Course Schedule, we notice that some of you are requesting lab fees in excess of $50.

Board of Regents policy requires that they pre-approve such fees. Some NNCC classes have already been approved. Please contact me or Lynn Mahlberg, if you have a lab fee over $50., to see if the Regents have approved it.

Lab fees (over $50.) need to be approved before they can be placed on the SIS system for registration. If lab fees have not been approved, you will need to write a letter to Dr. Remington for justification to the Regents. (You may wish to review the Regent's policy for possible exceptions prior to submitting a request.)

Please contact one of us if you have questions or would like a copy of the possible exceptions considered.

c: Dr. Remington
Carl Diekhans
Lynn Mahlberg
Office of Instruction

NNCC
EMPOWERING PEOPLE

A Member College of the University of Nevada System

The Artist
In Business

Controlling
Your Own Destiny

A one-day seminar for visual artists devoted to the business of selling art/crafts with an emphasis on marketing.

Sponsored by Nevada Small Business Development Center, NNCC Art Department, and Elko County Art Club

Summer courses are available in English for 9th, 10th, and 11th Grade Students

offered by

Northern Nevada Community College
in conjunction with Elko High School

Classes begin June 8.

For information, call Pat Collins, 753-2299.
EAFP 6-5-92

Thursday, June 18, 1992 Elko Daily Sun News

BUDGETING FOR SMALL BUSINESS

The Nevada Small Business Development Center and Northern Nevada Community College are sponsoring a 3-hr workshop on preparation and use of "Cash flow Budgets".

A well constructed budget assists the business owner or manager in controlling expenses, setting goals and making financial statements more meaningful.

In this 3-hour workshop presented by Lorrie Cook learn how to:

- Project cash flows
- Create budgets
- Analyze budget deviations for financial control

Date: June 26, 1992
Time: 9 a.m.-12 p.m.
Location: Berg Hall Rm 8 NNCC
Cost: $15.00

If you want to increase the financial controls of your business please call the Small Business Development Center at 753-2245 by June 24, 1992.

Thursday, June 18, 1992 Elko Daily Sun News

EFFECTIVE BUSINESS
WRITING SKILLS

A 3-Hr workshop designed to improve the businessperson's writing skills and techniques. Learn how to:

- Write effective letters, memos, reports and proposals
- Plan what you write
- Use your personal style in written communications

Date: June 24, 1992
Time: 9 a.m.-12 p.m.
Location: NNCC Berg Hall Rm 8
Cost: $15.00

Instructor: Richard McNally

If you are interested in improving your writing skills please call the Small Business Development Center at 753-2245 by June 22, 1992.

Northern Nevada Community College

An Educational Travel Adventure in Northern England and Scotland
June 14-28, 1992

$2528.00 includes RT airfare from Salt Lake City, 2 college credits,
pre-trip classes,
and the specialized services of Sarah Sweetwater.

Sarah Sweetwater, Art Department Chair and Educational Tour Director will offer pre-trip classes with guest speakers, videos and printed material to familiarize the group with the artistic, cultural, and historical aspects of the Scottish people. Sweetwater has taught Art at NNCC for 20 years and for 14 years has arranged and guided groups throughout North and South America and Europe. She has 12 years experience with Morris/Mr. Foster Travel in Salt Lake City. A Globus tour guide will also accompany the group to assist in all activities and to further inform the group about Scotland and England. In each city a local guide will meet the group to provide an additional dimension to the tour.

- Scheduled transatlantic flights if Globus-Gateway issues tickets
- Host service in London; professional tour director while touring
- Twin-bedded rooms with private bath or shower in first-class hotels throughout
- Welcome drink; three continental breakfasts(CB); ten full English breakfasts(FB);
- Seven, three-course dinners with choice of menus and coffee(D)
- Cruise on Loch Ness; scenic train ride Fort William-Mallaig
- Private deluxe motorcoach featuring forced air ventilation, reclining seats and extra leg room
- Sightseeing with local guides; London, Belvoir Castle, Abbotsford House, Edinburgh, Glamis Castle, Culzean Castle
- Visits to Cambridge, York, Hadrian's Wall, Edinburgh's Clan Tartan Centre, St. Andrews, Braemar, Crathie Church, a malt whiskey distillery, Culloden visitor centre, a woollen mill at Inverness, Fort William, Clan Donald Centre, Stirling, Glasgow's Burrell Collection, Robert Burns' birthplace, Tartan tweed centre in Moffet, Gretna Green, Grasmere, Chester, Shakespeare's Stratford, Oxford
- Scenic highlands: Northumberland, the Scottish Highlands, Isle of Skye, Loch Lomond and the Trossachs, Lake District
- Inside visits as shown in UPPER CASE in the tour description, including admission charges where applicable
- In Europe: tips for baggage handling and to hotel personnel, and all local taxes
- Globus-Gateway travel bag and documents

A deposit of $200 ($100 non-refundable) per person must be made on or before January 13 to reserve your space. Fill out the detachable form and mail to:

Sarah Sweetwater, c/o NNCC, 901 Elm Street, Elko, NV 89801.

Make checks payable to: NNCC Travel - Scotland

The Highlander

Scotland in depth, plus highlights of Northern England

Day 1, Sun. BOARD YOUR OVERNIGHT TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT.

Day 2, Mon. ARRIVAL IN LONDON. The day is free to rest or to start exploring the lively British capital. Uniformed Globus-Gateway hosts are available to help you make the most of your stay.

Day 3, Tue. LONDON. Morning sightseeing with a professional London guide includes all the famous landmarks: Royal Albert Hall and Albert Memorial, Kensington's museums, Chelsea, Knightsbridge with Harrods, the Houses of Parliament and Big Ben beside the River Thames. Highlights are a visit to WESTMINSTER ABBEY, regal setting of coronation ceremonies since 1066, and the Changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace, if held. Afternoon at leisure for independent activities. You may want to take an optional excursion to the Tower of London with its fabulous Crown Jewels or to Windsor Castle. Tonight, maybe a leisurely cruise on the River Thames? (CB)

Day 4, Wed. LONDON-YORK-DARLINGTON. Meet your tour director and traveling companions and depart London at 8 a.m. for a day of northbound travel packed with attractions: in Cambridge take a walk to the "Backs", the Mathematical Bridge and the imposing colleges; drive into Leicestershire and visit BELVOIR CASTLE, the stately home of the Duke and Duchess of Rutland with one of England's finest private art collections; in York walk through a maze of quaint medieval streets, including the narrow Shambles; stand in awe in front of the great structure of York Minster, then take time to explore its treasures at your own pace. Before dinner in Darlington join your tour director for a toast to happy touring with a congenial group. (CB,D)

Day 5, Thu. DARLINGTON-EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND. First today inspect a section of Hadrian's Wall, the Roman coast-to-coast defense against marauding northern tribes. Then vistas of wild Northumberland National Park, glimpses of the house of Mary, Queen of Scots, and of the Jedburgh and Melrose Abbey ruins, and finally a highlight visit to Sir Walter Scott's ABBOTSFORD HOUSE, where Dame Patricia Maxwell-Scott often guides our tours herself. Late afternoon arrival in Edinburgh, and time still to trace your Scottish ancestors on the archive computer of the CLAN TARTAN CENTRE. (FB)

Day 6, Fri. EDINBURGH. A full day in the "Prince of Cities". Morning sightseeing with a local expert starts with an orientation drive along Princes Street and the Royal Mile, and tales of some truly intriguing characters: the Bodysnatchers, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and Greyfriars Bobby. History comes alive as you tour mighty EDINBURGH CASTLE and the Queen's HOLYROOD PALACE. The afternoon is at leisure for a shopping spree at Waverley Market or to enjoy the sweeping panorama from Calton Hill. Tonight an optional Scottish evening with Highland dancers, bagpipers and the Ceremony of the Haggis. (FB)

Day 7, Sat. EDINBURGH-BRAEMAR. Over the elegant Forth Road Bridge and through Fife to historic St. Andrews. Its Royal and Ancient Golf Club, founded in 1745, has given us the rules of golfing. Cross the Firth of Tay to Dundee and visit GLAMIS CASTLE, the childhood home of the Queen Mother and birthplace of Princess Margaret. Then a scenic drive via picturesque Glenshee to Braemar, site of the Royal Highland Games for over 900 years. (FB,D)

Day 8, Sun. BRAEMAR-IVERNESS. A morning at leisure to discover Braemar at your own pace or to visit its castle. After lunch drive past Balmoral Castle to CRATHIE CHURCH, where the Queen worships when staying at Balmoral. Take the scenic route through grouse-hunting country to the humpback bridge at Gairnshiel and on through the vast expanses of heather in the Grampian Mountains. In the lovely Spey Valley visit a WHISKY DISTILLERY and listen to a lecture on the ancient art of converting barley, water and yeast into a heart-warming liquor. Next, relive the crushing Hanoverian victory over Bonnie Prince Charlie's Scottish clans as you watch a captivating audio-visual show at the CULLODEN VISITOR CENTRE. Overnight in Inverness. (FB,D)

Day 9, Mon. INVERNESS-FORT WILLIAM. Before leaving the Highland capital, shop for fine knitwear, tartans and tweeds at a local WOOLLEN MILL. Then the highlight of the day: cruise on Loch Ness and search its dark surface for signs of the mysterious monster. Disembark near the romantic ruins of Urquhart Castle and continue by coach on the spectacular road along the Caledonian Canal, down the Great Glen to Fort William. Spend the next two nights in this Highland resort beneath 4,006-foot-high Ben Nevis. (FB,D)

Day 10, Tue. FORT WILLIAM. EXCURSION TO THE ISLE OF SKYE. Start a memorable day with a unique experience: a nostalgic train ride across Neptune's Staircase and through the picture-book landscapes between Fort William and Mallaig. Here board your ferry to sail across the Sound of Sleat to Armadale Pier on the Inner Hebridean Isle of Skye. Visit the CLAN DONALD CENTRE with its magnificent park, and hear about 13 centuries of clan history. After lunch a complete change of scenery. Discover the bleak peat bogs on the island's central high plain where crofters used to eke out a living. At Kyleakin with its trim white houses you board the ferry for Lochalsh. The day ends with a scenic drive along the "Road to the Isles" back to Fort William. (FB,D)

Day 11, Wed. FORT WILLIAM-GLASGOW. Along Loch Linnhe to sinister Glen Coe, where the MacDonald Clan was treacherously massacred by the Campbells in 1692. On across wild Rannoch Moor to Lomond, the most famous loch of all. Follow its "Bonnie Banks" and enter the Trossachs, an area of outstanding natural beauty, luxuriantly covered with oak and rowan. A break in ancient Stirling with its splendid Renaissance castle, and finally a short drive to Glasgow. (FB,D)

Day 12, Thu. GLASGOW. EXCURSION TO ROBERT BURNS COUNTRY. Your morning excursion includes two fascinating highlights: in Alloway visit ROBERT BURNS' BIRTHPLACE and a MUSEUM dedicated to the great Scottish poet's life and work; then drive south to the 565-acre Culzean Country Park for a guided tour of beautiful CULZEAN CASTLE, seat of the Kennedy Clan. Of particular interest is General Eisenhower's World War II apartment where a gripping tribute to his military career is displayed. Afternoon at leisure in Glasgow, with an included visit to the BURRELL COLLECTION, one of the world's greatest art exhibitions. (FB,D)

Day 13, Fri. GLASGOW-CHESTER-LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND. Head south through the history steeped Lowland Hills to Moffat for a shopping stop at a famous TARTAN TWEED CENTRE. Via Gretna Green, where the blacksmith used to wed runaway couples, make for the tranquil Lake District, often considered the finest of England's National Parks. Here take a break in Wordsworth's beloved Grasmere. Then on to Chester, the historic county town on the River Dee which is best visited on foot. See the Roman remains, black and white half-timbered buildings, the cathedral, and the two-tiered shopping arcades called the "Rows". Overnight in nearby Liverpool of Beatles fame, once the departure port of the great transatlantic liners. Dinner is not included tonight to give you a chance to participate in an optional Welsh banquet at Ruthin Castle. (FB)

Day 14, Sat. LIVERPOOL-LONDON. A pleasant last day on the road. The lunch break is dedicated to Stratford-upon-Avon, where you have time for pictures of Anne Hathaway's Cottage, a visit to SHAKESPEARE'S BIRTHPLACE, and to shop for souvenirs. In the afternoon stroll through Oxford to see the venerable colleges where England's elite receives its outstanding education. Return to London around 4 p.m. How about celebrating the success of your tour by taking in one of the great West End shows? (FB)

Day 15, Sun. YOUR HOMEBOUND FLIGHT ARRIVES THE SAME DAY. (CB)

Soul of the Great Basin

Personal Expression Through Writing

Lives in Landscape: Writing Fiction for Personal Expression

Northern Nevada Community College will present a "how-to" workshop for writers and would-be writers using western lives and landscapes to illuminate the relationship between modern man and his ever-changing environment.

Saturday, September 28

1-3 p.m.

0 Credit.

$15 Fee.

William Kittredge, Instructor

The class will be held in McMullen Hall, Room 13. Register at NNCC Student Services in Berg Hall or call 753-2102 for more information.

The Best That Can Be: A Celebration of our Past and Future

William Kittredge, provocative western writer, will present the 14th Annual Humanities Lecture held in Elko on September 28. The lecture, which is free and open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m. in Berg Hall. "We believed the world was made to be useful: we ditched and named the intersections of our ditches. A place of pioneering people and images, a place of hard work and promise, a place often seen as a dumping ground for the illusions and waste of a disillusioned nation: the West, the Great Basin, Nevada." So says writer William Kittredge, setting the tone for his lecture.

William Kittredge grew up on the MC Ranch in southeastern Oregon, on the northern Nevada border, and farmed until he was 35, studied in the Writer's Workshop at the University of Iowa, and is now a professor of English at the University of Montana at Missoula. He has held a Stegner Fellowship at Stanford, received two Writing Fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, and two Pacific Northwest Bookseller's Awards for Excellence. He was also co-winner of the Montana Committee for the Humanities Award for Humanist of the Year, and winner of the Montana Governor's Award for the Arts.

Kittredge continues to assess the West from his particular position of rancher and scholar. Kittredge expressed his close connection to Nevada in a 1988 article in Harpers titled In My Backyard: A Visit to the Proposed National Nuclear Waste Repository. He says, "But on this drive south from Montana, where I live now, I was taking store of another Nevada, not the basin and range country that I love, but the Nevada our nation seems to think of as a vast, convenient dumpster out there waiting to be filled." He describes the desert and creosote covered terrain as mysterious and beautiful landscape and admires the spirit of those who live in the small rural towns of such places as Tonopah and Rhyolite.

An essayist, short story writer, and novelist, Kittredge has published Owning It All, a book of essays, and We Are Not In This Together, a collection of short stories. He has published in magazines such as Harpers, Esquire, The Atlantic, TriQuarterly, and The Paris Review, and co-authored nine novels in the Cord series of Westerns. He was co-winner of the Neil Simon Award from American Playhouse for his work on the script for the movie Heartland, and co-editor of The Last Best Place: A Montana Anthology. His book-length memoir, Hole in the Sky, will be published by Knopf this year.

GRANTS

AND FINANCIAL AID

STUDENT FINANCIAL SERVICES

Financial Aid Booklet

A yellow envelope is shown with a grey card partially inserted into its top flap. The card features a stylized starburst design with several stars in white and black. The text "Star Night Program" is written in a cursive font on the front of the envelope.

Star Night
Program

UNR offers school finance at NNCC

The University of Nevada Reno is offering a graduate course on public school finance at Northern Nevada Community College in October and November.

The course will be offered Fridays and Saturdays, Oct. 4-5, 18-19 and Nov. 22-23, and will be taught by David Noonan, an associate professor in the educational leadership department at the university.

According to UNR, the course will help students understand the process of funding public education, identify key factors related to federal, state and local sources of school revenue and discuss and manage critical issues related to school finance. They will also analyze and evaluate aspects of school funding with relation to equity and adequacy.

The classes will be from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Fridays and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays. The three-credit course fee is $189 for graduate credit.

To register, students can contact the community coordinator for Elko, Juanita Kerr, at NNCC, 738-8493, or the university's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800 233-9928. Further information is available from the division at 784-4046.

EDFP 9/18/91

EDFP 4/18/92

Scholarship: The first award from the Carol Pinkerton Nursing Scholarship Fund has been awarded to Nancy Farnsworth of Elko, left. Anne Rieger, Elko General Hospital nursing administrator, makes the presentation. Farnsworth is enrolled in Northern Nevada Community College's nursing program. "While a student, she is also a wife, mother of four children and has worked as a certified nursing assistant for the past five years, three of those years with Elko General Hospital," reports Janet Glenn, EGH publicist. Farnsworth has an associate of arts degree from Western Wyoming College in education and music. (EGH photo)

Don't let
a lack of money prevent you from attending

NNCC.

Financial help is available.

$ Scholarships for the 1992-93 academic year
Priority deadline — March 1
(Includes Continuing Education Scholarships)

$ Federal Student Aid
Applications are currently available for the 1992-93 academic year
Deadline for priority consideration — June 1

$ Numerous financial aid programs are available to assist with all areas of study

For more information call the Office of Student Financial Services, 753-2275.

E. Ind. 2/26/92

NNCC Star Night

Northern Nevada Community college held its "Star Night" on Friday night. About fifty awards were given to many students.

The scholarships and their recipients are listed below.

Richard Rose Agriculture - Brian Cochran. Ariel Glen Art - Nikki Hastings; Jessie Dewar Art - Sharon Hitchborn. Daniel Ahern Memorial - Charles Schain. Paul Laxalt - Early Childhood Development - Susan Wilson.

Wells Medical Center, Nursing - Carol McDade. Ruth Roseberry Nursing - Nancy Farnsworth. Elko General Hospital - Jewel Jacques. Laurena Moren Memorial - Karen Munson. Nevada Nurses Association - Claire Algerio and Tammy Crawford. Calvin Fisher Memorial Nursing - Kelly Sitre. Carol Pinkerton Memorial Nursing - Nancy Farnsworth.

Nevada Certified Public Accountants, Business - Padmini Bhakta, Kelly Lee, Kaleen Hepler and Maria Sandoval. C.P. National - Melanie Carr. Business and Professional Women - Suzan Pepin. Elko Board of Realtors - Shauna Kranz. Charter Counseling of NE Nevada, Psychology - Natalie Brown.

J.D. Long Associate of Arts - Kathy McFarland. UNS Space Grant Scholarship - Terri Worthington. Elko Kiwanis Club Vocational - Venida McGlothlin.

Margaret MacBeth Endowment - Michael Kane, Jesus Sandoval, Brian Cason, Brandi Alberson, Rosario Martinez, Alan Beaudoin, Brandie Olson, Tracy Rowley, Michael Attwood. Miles Setty Memorial Scholarship - Ximena Olsen. Northern Nevada Community College Foundation - Esther Alvarez, Jean Hart, Cheryl Costa, Meshell Godin, Leslee Johnson.

Elko County Bar Assn. - Clinton Pease. Soroptomist International of Elko - Kim Smith and Mona Noakes. Anonymous Foundation - Laura Bird, Kim Smith, Shirley Chantrill, Susan Smith. Veterans of Foreign Wars - Frank Honeyestewa.

V.F.W. Auxiliary - Wendy Raynor. Grace vanDalsen - Rosalie Virgil and Wendy Ispisua. Northern Nevada Community college Classified Staff Book - Carol McDade. Weiss Foundation - Debra Astle, Clint Blankenship, Chandra Glazier, Julia Holloway, Lana Johnson, Diane Pickett, Charity Wolkicki, Georgette Blankenship, Lela Buhl, Norma Guariglia, Jacqueline Johnson, Marlaine Marden, Loretta Raley, Tina Woods.

Mechanical Technology Training Program - Jon Carpenter, Jon Christensen, Bodie Gierhart, Thomas Heinz, Britt Kesi, Devon Miller, Victor Thompson, Nick Cecil, Maurice Connell, Josh Hardy, Cody Horton, Terry McGinnis, Ken Newman, Jared Wadsworth, Cortney Worline.

American Institute of Mining Engineers - Kenneth Stark, Hugh McMullen Memorial Scholarship - Tracy Bettia.

Editor's Note: Special Thanks to David Seymour for covering NNCC Star Night.

5/6/92

UNR offers school finance at NNCC

The University of Nevada Reno is offering a graduate course on public school finance at Northern Nevada Community College in October and November.

The course will be offered Fridays and Saturdays, Oct. 4-5, 18-19 and Nov. 22-23, and will be taught by David Noonan, an associate professor in the educational leadership department at the university.

According to UNR, the course will help students understand the process of funding public education, identify key factors related to federal, state and local sources of school revenue and discuss and manage critical issues related to school finance. They will also analyze and evaluate aspects of school funding with relation to equity and adequacy.

The classes will be from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Fridays and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays. The three-credit course fee is $189 for graduate credit.

To register, students can contact the community coordinator for Elko, Juanita Kerr, at NNCC, 738-9493, or the university's Division of Continuing Education at 1-800 233-8228. Further information is available from the division at 734-4046.

EDFP 9/18/91

Don't let
a lack of money prevent you from attending
NNCC.

Financial help is available.

$ Scholarships for the 1992-93 academic year
Priority deadline — March 1
(Includes Continuing Education Scholarships)

$ Federal Student Aid
Applications are currently available for the 1992-93 academic year
Deadline for priority consideration — June 1

$ Numerous financial aid programs are available to assist with all areas of study

For more information call the Office of Student Financial Services.

753-2275.
E. Ind. 2/26/92

NNCC Star Night

Northern Nevada Community college held its "Star Night" on Friday night. About fifty awards were given to many students.

The scholarships and their recipients are listed below.

Richard Rose Agriculture - Brian Cochran. Ariel Glen Art - Nikki Hastings; Jessie Dewar Art - Sharon Hitchborn. Daniel Ahern Memorial - Charles Schain. Paul Laxalt - Early Childhood Development - Susan Wilson.

Wells Medical Center, Nursing - Carol McDade. Ruth Roseberry Nursing - Nancy Farnsworth. Elko General Hospital - Jewel Jacques. Laurena Moren Memorial - Karen Munson. Nevada Nurses Association - Claire Algerio and Tammy Crawford. Calvin Fisher Memorial Nursing - Kelly Sittre. Carol Pinkerton Memorial Nursing - Nancy Farnsworth.

Nevada Certified Public Accountants, Business - Padmini Bhakta, Kelly Lee, Kaleen Hepler and Maria Sandoval. C.P. National - Melanie Carr. Business and Professional Women - Suzan Pepin. Elko Board of Realtors - Shauna Kranz. Charter Counseling of NE Nevada, Psychology - Natalie Brown.

J.D. Long Associate of Arts - Kathy McFarland. UNS Space Grant Scholarship - Terri Worthington. Elko Kiwanis Club Vocational - Venida McGlothlin. Anonymous Family Scholarship - Laura Gallegos, Laurie Robinson, Sharon Hitchborn, Carla Scott, Anita Snook.

Chevron U.S.A. General - Maureen Connors, Wendy Reid, Susan Traisman. Mel E. Lundberg Memorial - Brad Gelarden, Jeanice Roberts, Valerie Koffler, David Trujillo. Knights of Pythias - Sarah Hall. Elko Lions Club - Donald Unruh, Jr. Elko Rotary Club - Amber Vance, Elko County Classroom Teachers Assn. - Donna Franco. Brico, Inc. - Thomas Graves and Tyler Dahl.

Margaret MacBeth Endowment - Michael Kane, Jesus Sandoval, Brian Cason, Brandi Alberson, Rosario Martinez, Alan Beaudoin, Brandie Olson, Tracy Rowley, Michael Attwood. Miles Setty Memorial Scholarship - Ximena Olsen. Northern Nevada Community College Foundation - Esther Alvarez, Jean Hart, Cheryl Costa, Meshell Godin, Leslie Johnson.

Elko County Bar Assn. - Clinton Pease. Soroptomist International of Elko - Kim Smith and Mona Noakes. Anonymous Foundation - Laura Bird, Kim Smith, Shirley Chantrill, Susan Smith. Veterans of Foreign Wars - Frank Honeyestewa.

V.F.W. Auxiliary - Wendy Raynor. Grace vanDalsen - Rosalie Virgil and Wendy Ispisua. Northern Nevada Community college Classified Staff Book - Carol McDade. Weiss Foundation - Debra Astle, Clint Blankenship, Chandra Glazier, Julia Holloway, Lana Johnson, Diane Pickett, Charity Wolkicki, Georgette Blankenship, Lela Buhl, Norma Guariglia, Jacqueline Johnson, Marlaine Marden, Loretta Raley, Tina Woods.

Mechanical Technology Training Program - Jon Carpenter, Jon Christensen, Bodie Gierhart, Thomas Heinz, Britt Kesi, Devon Miller, Victor Thompson, Nick Cecil, Maurice Connell, Josh Hardy, Cody Horton, Terry McGinnis, Ken Newman, Jared Wadsworth, Courtney Worline.

American Institute of Mining Engineers - Kenneth Stark, Hugh McMullen Memorial Scholarship - Tracy Beitia.

Editor's Note: Special Thanks to David Seymour for covering NNCC Star Night.]

E. Ind. 5/6/92

EDFP 4/18/92

Scholarship: The first award from the Carol Pinkerton Nursing Scholarship Fund has been awarded to Nancy Farnsworth of Elko, left. Anne Rieger, Elko General Hospital nursing administrator, makes the presentation. Farnsworth is enrolled in Northern Nevada Community College's nursing program. "While a student, she is also a wife, mother of four children and has worked as a certified nursing assistant for the past five years, three of those years with Elko General Hospital," reports Janet Glenn, EGH publicist. Farnsworth has an associate of arts degree from Western Wyoming College in education and music. (EGH photo)

Community college, city receive rural arts grants

Northern Nevada Community College and the City of Elko recently received grants from the Nevada State Council on the Arts under the Rural Arts Development Grants program. This new NSCA program, funded in 1991 by the Nevada Legislature and the National Endowment for the Arts, helps rural communities increase their arts services and programming, said Sharon Rosse, director of services.

The council awarded $76,490 to nine applicants throughout the state. NNCC received $4,810 and the City of Elko received $5,000.

Recipients use the funding to develop cultural plans and organized arts activities, to stabilize and expand current programs, or to solve structural and organizational issues. RAD grants were awarded in two categories: one for developing communities and one for developing arts organizations.

Rosse said several of the requests for grants sought help in evaluating and planning performing-arts facilities for small towns. In order to make the best use of NSCA funds, Rosse added, Tim Welch, operations director of the Pioneer Center in Reno, was contracted as a consultant to work with five of the communities.

Welch will work with groups in Elko, Battle Mountain, Winnemucca, Yerington and Amargosa to plan for construction or renovation of facilities for performing artists.

A second round of RAD grant requests is due by June 1, with awards to be presented in July. Groups interested in applying should contact Cheryl Miglioretto at NSCA, 329 Flint St., Reno, Nev. 89501. The phone number for NSCA is 688-1225.

E.D.F.P. 5/17/92

Cowboy Poetry And NNCC Win Grants

The Nevada Humanities Committee met in Fallon on May 29 for the second of three grant review meetings scheduled for 1992. The Committee received twenty one proposals requesting $139,746.82. Sixteen proposals were funded for a total of $72,333. Two grants were given to the following Elko organizations: The Western Folklife Center received $8,000 for the Ninth Annual "Cowboy Poetry Gathering," to be held this January in Elko. Northern Nevada Community College received a grant of $4,650 for "Symbiosis of the Souls: An Exploration of Great Basin Cultures." Scheduled for this fall and winter, the program features lectures which highlight the cultural diversity of the Great Basin experience.

The Nevada affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Nevada Humanities Committee uses public and private funds to support programs that acquaint Nevadans with their cultural legacy, that address contemporary social and political concerns, and that enrich the intellectual life of the state. Grants and many other services are available to any non-profit group. For more information about the programs listed here or other information, please call 784-6587 in Reno and 798-0337 in Las Vegas.

6-24-92

ET

NNCC students receive technology scholarships

EDFP 6-12-92

Thirty scholarships have been awarded to Northern Nevada Community College Mechanical Technology Training Program applicants, announce NNCC officials.

Students are selected for the scholarships based on their high-school grades, attendance records, character, work ethic, mechanical aptitude and interest in the field. The scholarships pays for tuition, fees and some books.

The MTTP program is sponsored by Manpower Training Cooperative Inc., which includes Barrick Goldstrike, Newmont Gold, Dee Gold, Round Mountain Gold, Pioneer Equipment and The Miners' Pick, an arm of the Nevada Mining Association.

MTTP is a special career opportunity for those interested in mining or related industries. It is an extensive one-year program that combines classroom and laboratory work. Paid, on-the-job training is possible with Nevada mines, their suppliers and equipment vendors during summer and semester breaks.

Stank Popeck, director of occupational education, said "Graduates are virtually guaranteed careers as diesel technicians; mill mechanics, welding technicians or industrial maintenance electricians. Completion of the MTTP will qualify graduates for employment in a field with a future, a job with good pay and job skills useful for the rest of their lives."

Local high school applicants receiving scholarships this year are Scott Nelson, Ben Mowrey, Jim Cooney, Quentin Osborne, Robert Decker, Kendall Rookstool, Brian Umland, Michael Kane, Earl Lucy, Unadel Hernandez, Phillip Serrano, William Tanner, Jesus Sandoval, John Rodriguez and Rosario Martinez.

In addition, Barrick Goldstrike awarded scholarships to Mike Quintana, Andy Verbeck, Carmen Osgood, Ray Smith, Dennis McGuire, Larry Payne, Alvin Brady, Curtis Decker, Darrin Quilici, Jim Heit, Tom Graves, Chuck Schain, Jason Lusk and Eric Molyneux.

Round Mountain Gold Mine awarded a scholarship to Jarrett La Rue.

Information on MTTP is available by calling Popeck at 753-2303.

Elko groups receive humanities grants

Monday June 22, 1992

Elko Daily Free Press

Western Folklife Center and Northern Nevada Community College were awarded grants from the Nevada Humanities Committee during the committee's grant review meeting May 29 in Fallon.

In the second of three grant review meetings scheduled for this year, the committee approved 16 of 21 proposals for a total of $72,333, said Judith Winzeler, executive director for the committee.

The folklife center received $8,000 to help fund the ninth Cowboy Poetry Gathering to be held in January, and NNCC was awarded $4,650 for "Symbiosis of the Souls: An Exploration of Great Basin Cultures." The college program, scheduled for this fall and winter, features lectures about the cultural diversity of the Great Basin region.

The Nevada Humanities Committee is an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Winzeler reported the committee uses public and private funds to support programs that address contemporary social and political concerns, and acquaint Nevadans with their cultural legacy.

Winzeler said grants and other services are available to any nonprofit group in Nevada. People who are interested in the programs should contact the committee at 784-6587 in Reno or 798-0337 in Las Vegas.

NNCC

FOUNDATION

Donation: Dewey's Chevrolet has donated a 1991 Chevrolet Beretta to Northern Nevada Community College automotive technology department. The automobile will be used to teach engine diagnostics and auto-computer systems. Pictured, from left, are Jerry Franco, shop foreman, and Ron Brown, service manager, at Dewey's; and Carl Cook, automotive technology instructor, and Stan Aiazzi, dean of student services, of NNCC.

EDFP 8/3/91

Book work: Marilou Buenaventura, left, and Tina Renteria have been checking in books and stocking shelves at the new book store in the soon-to-open Northern Nevada Community College Community Center. The store is expected to be finished in time for the start of fall semester classes on Sept. 3, ac-ording to Jean Sloane, office manager for the NNCC Foundation, which raised the $1.6 million that financed construction of the new center. Sloane said the rest of the center wouldn't be completed until late September. An open house is scheduled for Nov. 17.

EDFP 8/24/91

Literacy: Barrick Goldstrike employees last week donated $500 to Northern Nevada Community College to be used for the college's adult literacy program. The employees raised the money through the sale of watches bearing the company logo, according to Barrick employee Lee Ann Adams, seated left, who presented the check to NNCC. Seated at right is Sue Bettles, a tutor with the adult literacy program. Standing, left to right, are: tutors Genette Biddulph, Paula Wallock, Ida Stringham, Judy Hovan and Cliff Ferry, director of curriculum and instruction.

Barrick Donates To Adult Literacy Program — Barrick Goldstrike employees donated $500 to the Northern Nevada Community College to be used for purchasing computer programs and books for the Adult Literacy Program. Barrick employees raised money through the sale of watches bearing the company logo. These funds were earmarked for donation to community organizations or projects. A committee of employees considered various organizations before selecting the recipients. It unanimously voted to contribute the majority of the money to programs that support youth activities; however, understanding the vital role that literacy has in the workplace, the employees wanted to support this NNCC program. Pictured are left to right: (back row) NNCC Tutors, Genette Biddulph, Paula Wallock, Ida Stringham, Judy Hovan, Cliff Ferry - Director of Curriculum & Instruction, Lee Ann Adams of the Barrick Committee, and Sue Bettles - Head Tutor (seated).

EDFP 9/6/91

NNCC's planned Technical Arts Building is shown in this artist's rendition. Groundbreaking is expected in two weeks. RC Layne Construction of Elko has been named general contractor for the $2.7 million project, expected to take 13 months to build.

Bid awarded for NNCC Technical Arts Building

RC Layne Construction of Elko will build Northern Nevada Community College's planned Technical Arts Building, and groundbreaking for the project is slated within the next two weeks.

The building is to provide the growing college with additional classroom space while upgrading facilities for automotive and diesel classes.

Bids were opened Aug. 1, and RC Layne was awarded the contract based on its bid of $2,745,000. Interest of Salt Lake City actually had a lower bid at $2,665,000, but state law allows a Nevada contractor to be selected if it is within five percent of the low bid.

Will Ward of RC Layne said several local subcontractors are being hired for the project. A pre-construction meeting was held last Thursday for state officials, the architect and contractors.

The 22,500-square-foot building has been in the planning stages for about two years, according to Val Easterly, NNCC's director of planning and public information.

Building plans include an art room for ceramics and pottery, auto and diesel class areas where automotive and mining equipment will be used and 10 faculty offices for teachers. There also will be one computer-assisted drafting lab, five other classrooms and a lecture and demonstration area. The lecture area, using step tiers for seating, is to seat 152 people.

"What it does is give us a lot more classroom space and the faculty offices, which we really needed," Easterly said. She explained the new shop areas will help students train for occupations in the mining industry, and said new equipment is to be purchased for those departments.

The building is to be located east of Lundberg Hall on the NNCC campus. Its construction will require moving the college's existing art barn, Easterly said.

Construction is expected to take 390 days.

The project's architect is Casazza, Peatz & Hancock of Reno.

Another new NNCC building, the Community Center, is nearly finished. Work on the first phase of the center is nearly complete, and the building will be ready for use later this month. The building's second phase still is being designed. Mark B. Garff Construction Co. of Salt Lake City is the primary contractor on that building.

E. Ind. 9/25/91

NNCC Breaks Ground Next Week

The public is invited to attend the official ground breaking ceremony for NNCC's newest construction project, the Technical Arts Building.

The ground breaking will be held Monday, September 30, at 11 a.m. There will be a brief ceremony at the site, weather permitting, or in the Berg Hall Multipurpose Room should there be inclement weather. Refreshments will be available in the Berg Hall Multipurpose Room following the ceremony. Plans for the building as well as a map of proposed campus development will be on display.

The Nevada State Legislature funded the building this year with a budget of $2,800,000. When complete, the new technical arts center will house state of the art auto, diesel, and CAD (Computer-Assisted Drafting) shops and laboratories, ten faculty offices, art facilities, five general classrooms, and a tiered lecture room that will accommodate 150 students.

NNCC schedules groundbreaking

Northern Nevada Community College has scheduled a groundbreaking ceremony at 11 a.m. Monday for NNCC's Technical Arts Building.

College spokesmen announced there will be a brief ceremony at the site, weather permitting, or in Berg Hall. Refreshments will be served in Berg Hall following the ceremony. Building plans and a map of proposed campus development will be on display at the ceremony.

When completed, the technical arts center will house auto, diesel and Computer-Assisted Drafting (CAD) shops and laboratories, 10 faculty offices, art facilities, five classrooms and a tiered lecture room to accommodate 150 students.

The building was funded by the Nevada State Legislature; the budget for it was $2.8 million.

EDFP 9/28/91

EDFP 9/16/91

NNCC Foundation's Fall Dinner Dance committee members display the poster announcement for the annual fund-raiser. Pictured, from left, Coralee Griswold and Don Miller, co-chairmen; and Ora Enos of the decoration committee.

NNCC dinner dance begins ticket sales

Northern Nevada Community College Foundation has launched a ticket sales drive for the 1991 Fall Dinner Dance, which is scheduled to be held Oct. 19 at the Elko Convention Center.

The fund-raiser is held each year in conjunction with the annual meeting of the college foundation's board of trustees. Proceeds from the dinner dance will be used to fund scholarship programs and other NNCC student-related projects.

Coralee Griswold and Don Miller are serving as co-chairmen for this year's event. They will be working under the direction of the Foundation Special Events and Annual Giving Committee, chaired by Connie Satterthwaite. According to Griswold, the special events committee initiates and oversees major fund-raising projects for the foundation.

The theme for this year's dance, "The Gatsby Getaway," is centered around steamship travel in the 1920s and 1930s. Decorations for the evening were designed by Ora Enos, Patty Jones, Beth Holmes and Griswold. Committee members said the decorations were designed to create the illusion of boarding a steamship, complete with gang plank, portholes and decks. Griswold said people attending the dinner dance are encouraged to dress in 1920s costumes or clothing, but it is not mandatory.

The evening begins with no-host cocktails from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Seating for dinner starts at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by the welcoming address from Jeanne Blach, foundation chairman. NNCC President Ron Remington also is scheduled to address the diners.

Dancing to the Joe Muscalino Quartet from Salt Lake City will follow dinner. The quartet will offer selections of easy listening, jazz, big band, and dance tunes from the 1920s to current pop tunes, according to committee spokesmen.

Tickets are available from Gratton's Fine Dining, 738-2170, the NNCC Foundation office, 753-2237, or from special events committee members Satterthwaite, Mary Harper, Fran Thiercof, Grace vanDalfsen, Marilee Harper, Blach and Remington. Tickets are $35 a person and must be purchased in advance. Table reservations for groups of eight to 10 persons may be made at the time tickets are purchased.

EDFP 10/1/91

Ceremony: Ground was broken yesterday at Northern Nevada Community College for the Technical Arts Building now under construction east of Lundberg Hall. From left to right are: University of Nevada Regent Dorothy Gallagher of Elko; Assemblyman John Carpenter, R-Elko; Burke South, general manager of RC Layne Construction of Elko; Mark Chilton of Chilton Engineering and Surveying of Elko; and NNCC President Ron Remington. Dean of College Services Carl Dickhans told dignitaries at the ceremony that the state allocated $4 million for the project, which included landscaping and furnishings for the building. RC Layne bid $2,745,000 to build the 22,500-square-foot facility, which will include a lecture hall, six classrooms, a computer-assisted drafting lab, shops and faculty offices.

NNCC Breaks Ground For New Building

Northern Nevada Community College hosted ground breaking ceremonies, September 30, for a Technical Arts building adjacent to Lundberg Hall. The $4 million project, designed by Casazz, Peetz and Hancock, Architects and Planners of Reno - with local faculty and staff input - has been contracted to R.C. Layne Construction, Inc., of Elko under the auspices of Chilton Engineering. One of the first buildings to come in under the projected bld, there will be funds left to begin the landscaping necessary to unify the campus plan. E.Ind. 10/2/91

The Technical Arts building will house a lecture hall, diesel and machine shops, fine arts facilities and offices. The $258,000 furniture budget will allow for state-of-the-art safety and noise-dampening equipment and a computer imaging system.

Pictured above, sporting hard hats and golden shovels, are University Regent Dorothy Gallagher, Assemblyman John Carpenter, R.C. Layne General Manager Burke South, Chilton Engineering's Mark Chilton, and NNCC President Ronald Remington.

Independence mine donates funds to NNCC

Independence Mining Co. recently made a $7,500 donation to Northern Nevada Community College Foundation as part of a pledge to contribute a total of $75,000 to the group. Company spokesmen report that the contribution is the third installment of the pledged amount.

Brent Chamberlain, human resources manager for Independence Mining, said the company was pleased to continue its support of NNCC and the foundation. He said, "We enjoy our partnership with the college and enjoy watching it flourish as it has in recent years. We like to think we've helped the college achieve its current level of success and look forward to even greater growth in the future for NNCC."

According to company spokesmen, Independence Mining has donated $45,000 to the foundation since 1985. Independence also supports education at the state level through various programs including Partners in Education and the Earth Space Science Institute for Teachers at the University of Nevada, Reno. In addition, Independence provides university scholarships to the children of employees and awards two four-year scholarships each year to both UNR and the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. E.D.F.P. 10/12/91

RPEN luncheon meet at new NNCC building

Elko Chapter of Retired Public Employees of Nevada had a luncheon meeting in the social room of the new community center building at Northern Nevada Community College, reports Evelyn Clark, reporter. Fay Guidager, president, introduced state president Wally Kurtz of Reno; Elko Mayor Jim Polkinghorne and his wife, Marge; Jeanne Blach, chairman of the NNCC Foundation; and Val Easterly, NNCC management consultant.

Kurtz presented plans for the state committees, answered questions and reviewed the state newsletter. Polkinghorne was presented a certificate for his support of RPEN.

Blach talked about money-raising goals set for the college and Easterly discussed the funds that have been raised. She also presented an architect's drawing of the master plan for the school's growth. A tour of the new building followed the meeting.

Plans were made for a pot-luck luncheon at the Nov. 19 meeting at the Elko County Library. The chapter will furnish turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, rolls and coffee. Members are asked to bring salads or desserts and their own table service. Gene Moore of Edward D. Jones and Company will discuss the economy and investments.

EDFP 11/2/91

EDFP 11/16/91

Going up: Construction work on the walls of Northern Nevada Community College's new Technical Arts Building is progressing on schedule as workers attempt to close the building in before winter, according to a college spokesman. Contractor for the new building is RC Layne Construction of Elko, which bid $2,745,000 to erect the 22,500-square-foot structure that will include a lecture hall, classrooms, labs, shops and faculty offices. The facility is expected to be completed by next October.

Open house Sunday at new NNCC center

Grand Opening At NNCC

F. I. NO. 11/13/91

The Public is invited to attend grand opening ceremonies for the Northern Nevada Community College's new Community Center this Sunday.

Between 1 and 4 p.m., NNCC and Foundation staff will be leading tours of the new facility and refreshments will be served.

NNCC's Community Center houses the Foundation office, bookstore, Elko Channel office, study areas, a cafeteria and many other offices. It was designed by local architectural firm J.D. Long Architect.

Foundation staff urge the community to come and tour the new center and see what it has to offer. For more information, call the college at 738-8493.

An open house at the new Community Center on the campus of Northern Nevada Community College is scheduled from 1 p.m. to 4 Sunday.

The NNCC Foundation and college staffs will be on hand to conduct tours of the $1.6 million facility, which was financed by donations from the community.

"People in Elko are just super," NNCC Foundation Chairman Jeanne Blach said of the many donors.

The names of all 263 donors will appear on some 27 plaques at the center, she said, and a unique, 11-foot sculpture will highlight the wall of donors. The plaques are not expected to be completed in time for the open house, however.

The sculpture was designed by artist Susan Glaser Church of Berkeley, Calif., who fulfilled a foundation committee's desire for a Nevada theme, Blach said. Church, the daughter of Marianne and Art Glaser of Halleck, donated a portion of her work.

The sculpture is made mainly of copper with various scenes outlined in neon lights. The work depicts the Ruby Mountains and Humboldt River and the cattails alone weigh 200 pounds, Blach said.

Blach said $2 million was raised in the community during the foundation's campaign for funds to build the center, although some of that is in the form of property that the foundation is still holding.

A second phase of the center project will be an auditorium and activities center building that are expected to be completed by the spring of 1993. The Nevada Legislature matched the $2 million in donations for the Community Center to fund the second phase.

Blach said the center was designed for NNCC students and the community and includes a dining room, social room, a bookstore, study areas, a TV room, an activities room and offices.

The public is invited to the opening celebration. Refreshments will be served.

EDFP 11/15/91

*Northern Nevada Community College and its Foundation are pleased to recognize you as an honored donor and to celebrate the opening of the College Community Center
on the
Northern Nevada Community College Campus*

*Time: 5 - 8 p.m.
with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres
Date: Saturday, November 16, 1991*

*R.S.V.P.: NNCC Foundation
753-2237 or 753-2246*

Northern Nevada Community College and its Foundation are pleased to invite you to celebrate the opening of the College Community Center on the Northern Nevada Community College Campus

*Time: 1 - 4 p.m.
Date: Sunday, November 17, 1991
Refreshments served*

EDFP 11/15/91

The completion of Northern Nevada Community College's new Community Center was celebrated yesterday during an open house. The facility includes a study room, recreation room, bookstore, social room, TV room, offices and dining area. In the above photo, people gathered in the new dining hall for refreshments after looking over the new $1.6 million facility, which was financed with community donations. At right, Paul Sawyer, one of the founders of the 24-year-old college, and Jeanne Blach, chairman of the NNCC Foundation, stand in front of a plaque designating the eating area as the Founders

Dining Room. Besides Sawyer, the founders included Bill Wunderlich, Hugh Collett, Mike Marfisi, Fred Harris, Bob Burns Jr., Les Moren, Al Huber, Carl Shuck and Mark Chilton.

E.D.F.P. 12/17/91

Alltel employees Ralph Walborn, standing, and Donna Farrow discuss the phone company's new Centrex telephones with Carl Diekhans, dean of college services for Northern Nevada Community College. Walborn is Alltel's communications consultant and Farrow is a marketing assistant.

Alltel providing new type of business phone system

Northern Nevada Community College recently became the first customer to use a new telephone system offered by Alltel-CP National, reported Glenn Crisler, vice president of Alltel's Nevada operations.

The system, called Centrex, is based at the phone company's central office. It provides businesses with the same services as a PBX (private branch exchange) system, but without the expense of switchboard equipment, Crisler explained. Customers also can choose among 40 different calling options such as call waiting, call forwarding, call pick-up and call transfer.

The college now has separate phone numbers for different departments, although any department still can be reached through a receptionist at the old number, 738-8493. Those who know the extension number of the particular department or person they are calling can reach them directly by dialing 753-2 followed by the three-digit extension number.

Crisler said NNCC has been continually upgrading its communications system in order to keep up with rapid growth over the past decade. Because the campus is spread out among many buildings, trying to tie all the sites together became a problem. After evaluating the situation, Alltel recommended Centrex.

"Centrex will not only solve the college's current telecommunications problems, but will provide for and enhance additional growth," he said.

The system was placed into operation in September.

"We were very pleased at how well the first Centrex cut went, particularly considering the size of the customer," Crisler said. "Everyone worked very hard to ensure the project's success."

He said all reports from employees at the college have been favorable. They have particularly noticed a decrease in incoming calls to the switchboard operator, which allows the operator to be more productive in her other job functions. In addition, the college has had fewer missed calls, lower monthly rates and increased efficiency in departments that are too small to have a receptionist.

Software for the Centrex system was installed last March when the Elko digital switching office was upgraded. Then the company applied for permission to market the system with the Nevada Public Service Commission, which approved it in July. Since then, Alltel has been marketing the Centrex system to local businesses.

Glenn Crisler of Alltel, right, recently presented $10,000 to Northern Nevada Community College President Ron Remington and Jeanne Blach, NNCC Foundation chairman. The check is the first payment of Alltel's $50,000 pledge to the foundation.

NNCC Foundation gets $50,000 gift from Alltel

Alltel-CP National recently pledged $50,000 gift to Northern Nevada Community College Foundation, announced Jeanne Blach, foundation chairman.

The donation, which will be given to the foundation in increments of $10,000 over a five-year period, will be used to offset the costs of building the Community Center.

Glenn Crisler, vice president of Alltel's Nevada operations, presented the first $10,000 to school officials on Dec. 3.

"The college provides a very valuable resource to the people and businesses of Elko and surrounding communities, and we are proud to be able to support NNCC," he said.

He said the $50,000 was a gift from shareholders.

"We are grateful to Alltel for its generous donation and are pleased the local telephone company joined with other members in the community to support NNCC," said Ron Remington, president of NNCC.

He added that the Alltel donation will be used for the new center's kitchen facility. An engraved plaque has been placed near the kitchen to commemorate the company's gift.

Blach said NNCC built the center to help meet the needs of the rapidly growing campus. The college's enrollment has increased 50 percent over the past two years.

The Community Center is being built in two phases. Phase I was completed at a cost of about $2 million and, in June, the foundation was awarded $2 million in matching funds by the Nevada Legislature for the completion of Phase II.

The design for the second phase will be determined by January and is expected to include a theater and an individual sports area.

NNCC Foundation was founded in 1982 as a non-profit corporation, which is fiscally separate from the college, and focuses on raising funds for the college from the private sector.

Through the work of its members, several avenues for individual and business support have been developed including donations of money, real estate, personal property, equipment and securities, Blach said.

Other provisions may be made through wills, by gifts of insurance policies, or through the creation of an endowment or trust. All gifts to the foundation are tax-deductible.

Blach said the foundation will arrange tours of the center and/or the NNCC campus. Anyone who is interested in viewing the center or campus may call 763-2237.

E. Ind. 12/18/91

Dr. Ron Remington, NNCC president, and Jeanne Blach, NNCC Foundation Chairperson, accept the first of five $10,000 checks from Glenn Crisler, vice president of Nevada Operations for ALLTEL Corp.

ALLTEL Gives $50,000 to NNCC

Jeanne Blach, chairperson of the Northern Nevada Community College Foundation, recently announced that ALLTEL Corporation has pledged a gift of $50,000 to the college. The donation will be given in increments of $10,000 over a five-year period and will help offset the costs of building the new College Community Center.

Glenn Crisler, vice-president of ALLTEL's Nevada operations, recently presented the first $10,000 to school officials. "We are very proud to be able to support NNCC," said Crisler. "The college provides a very valuable resource to the people and businesses of Elko and surrounding communities."

The donation, a gift from ALLTEL shareholders, will not result in an increase in telephone rates.

The new Center houses many student facilities, including a study area, student government offices, and a kitchen. The ALLTEL donation was specifically earmarked to offset the costs of the kitchen. An engraved plaque is in place near the kitchen to commemorate the company's gift.

"We are very grateful to ALLTEL for its generous donation and are pleased the telephone company joined with other members in the community to support NNCC," said Dr. Ron Remington, NNCC's president.

The Community Center is being built in two phases. Phase I, which is already complete, cost an estimated $2 million. In June, the State Legislature awarded the Foundation a matching $2 million for completion of Phase II. The planning of the second phase is scheduled to be complete by January, and will include a theater and individual sports area.

The NNCC Foundation, Inc., is a non-profit corporation and is fiscally separate from the college. Founded in 1982, the Foundation focuses on raising funds for the college from the private sector. In addition, the Foundation is happy to arrange tours of the NNCC campus. Please contact the Foundation office at 753-2237 for more information.

E. Ind. 12/25/91

FAX Donation— Office Furniture and Supply donated a fax machine to the NNCC Foundation office Tuesday. The machine, valued at nearly $700, is desperately needed and much appreciated, said office manager Jean Sloan. Pictured above with the new fax are (l. to r.): Jeanne Blach, NNCC Foundation president; Elisa Whited, OFS salesperson; Bruce Frazier, OFS owner; and Sloan.

Fax donation: Bruce Frazier of Office Furniture Sales and Supply recently donated a Swintec facsimile machine to the Northern Nevada Community College Foundation for its new office in the college's Community Center. On hand for the presentation, from left, were Jeanne Blach, chairman of the NNCC Foundation; Elisa Whited, company salesman; Frazier; and Jean Sloan, NNCC Foundation office manager.

College Community Center — NNCC's Foundation challenged the community and was able to raise over a million to start Phase I of the building projects for the college. The Center held its grand opening in November and is used by both community and students. These photos show before and after shots of the lobby. Susan Glaser-Church designed and built the sculpture, "Nighttime in Nevada." NNCC looks forward to opening its new technical arts building and start on Phase II of the community center this year.

Losses. . . 1/1/92
E. Ind. 1/1/92

Barrick: Barrick Goldstrike Mines this week donated $30,000 to the Northern Nevada Community College Foundation as the final installment of a $100,000 pledge for the new NNCC Community Center. Standing in front of a plaque recognizing Barrick's contribution, from left, are: Chuck Briggs, vice chairman of the foundation; John McDonough, vice president and general manager of Barrick Goldstrike; Marilou Buenaventura, an officer in the Associated Student Body at NNCC; Marilee Harper, foundation trustee; Ron Remington, NNCC president and foundation secretary; and Russ McMullen, foundation trustee. EDFP 1/25/92

Child Center Donation To Chantyl — The NNCC Child Center raised $700 for Chantyl Peterson (lower right) who three years old and is suffering from aplastic anemia. The money will help fund her bone marrow transplant. Child Care Center Director, Marilee Harper, said the funds were raised by donations and through a "Reach Out And Share" Luncheon given at NNCC. Chantyl and her brother Jared were enrolled in the Center. According to Chantyl's mother, Sheri, about $27,000 has been raised for her transplant and a perfect donor has been found. On Valentine's Day, Chantyl will begin the procedure. All the money was raised through the generous efforts of the community, businesses and organizations.

Barrick recently donated $30,000 to the NNCC Foundation. Pictured are: (L to R) Russ McMullen, Foundation Board; Marilee Harper, NNCC; Marlou Buenaventura, ASB Officer; John McDonough, Barrick General Manager; Dr. Ron Remington, NNCC; Chuck Briggs, Foundation Vice-Chairman.

(Staff Photo)

Barrick Donates To NNCC

Barrick Goldstrike Mines, Inc. donated $30,000 to the Northern Nevada Community College Foundation, the final installment of a $100,000 pledge for the new College Community Center.

John McDonough, Vice President and General Manager, stated, "We believe that the educational opportunities provided by NNCC greatly benefit all the citizens of Elko County. Those individuals who have a desire to improve themselves can further their education without having to leave the area."

Barrick is very supportive of higher education and has demonstrated their commitment through donations at the state level to the University of Nevada Reno and the University of Nevada Las Vegas, in addition to monies contributed to NNCC. The company also provides scholarships to children of employees, an amount totalling over $500,000 in the past three years.

"We look forward to a continuing partnership with NNCC," McDonough added, "not only as a benefit to Barrick, but to the local business community as well."

Dr. Ron Remington of NNCC stated, "The Foundation appreciates the support given by Barrick and their fine example to the rest of the community."

At present, the Foundation is making plans for the construction of Phase II of the College Community Center. It is expected that construction will begin in late spring.

E. Ind. 1/29/92

E. Ind. 2/19/92

(Staff Photo)

Coastal Chem Donation — NNCC Foundation received a $20,000 donation from Coastal Chem, Inc. Mark Chilton, NNCC Trustee, and Padmini Bhakta, Associated Student Body Secretary were on hand to receive the check from Michael F. Soter of Coastal Chem. Chilton said the Foundation was pleased with the donation from the new company and appreciated its support. Soter stated, "Coastal Chem, Inc. is proud to support NNCC. The reputation that NNCC has for quality training and education for area industry and the community is a key reason for our support. With the addition of our new Ammonium Nitrate plant in Battle Mountain, Coastal Chem is now part of the community and can take advantage of the opportunities NNCC provides."

EDFP 2-21-92

Video gift: Newmont Gold Co. recently donated a video projector and related equipment to Northern Nevada Community College. Lee Hoffman of Newmont made the presentation to Juanita Karr, director of NNCC Learning Resource Center. Karr said the resource center will use the video projector throughout the campus. Hoffman said the equipment was previously used in a Newmont office on the East Coast and "we wanted to see the equipment put to good use."

College sets bingo event

Bingo night at Northern Nevada Community is scheduled for Saturday from 8 to 9 p.m. at the college Community Center.

The cost is 50 cents for one card per game or $1 for three cards. Cash prizes will be awarded to bingo winners 21 and over and underage winners will receive gift certificates from area merchants. Drawings for door prizes will be held every half hour and the last door-prize winner of the night will receive a handmade afghan.

Marilee Harper, food concession chairman, reported that homemade chili and pies will be offered for sale throughout the evening. A $1 donation will buy a bowl of chili or a slice of pie and beverages will be available for 50 cents.

All proceeds from the event will benefit the NNCC Foundation.

2-26-92 E D F P

(Submitted Photo)

Mountain View Care Center recently loaned NNCC Foundation its bingo machine to call game numbers at the foundation's fund-raiser scheduled for Saturday at the college Community Center. Lisa Kumputa, Mountain View activities director, is pictured handing the machine over to Louie Horton, chairman of the NNCC-bingo event.

BINGO Time — The time is getting closer for the big event—BINGO—at the College Community Center on the campus of Northern Nevada Community College. The NNCC Foundation wants everyone to know that all ages are invited to come and enjoy the evening. Cash prizes will be won—except to those winners under 21. Under-age winners will receive gift certificates from area merchants. Drawings will be held every half hour for door prizes with the last door prize of the evening for a handmade afghan.

Mountain View Care Center has generously loaned the Foundation the bingo machine used to call the game numbers. Shown in the picture along with the machine are Louie Horton, chair of the Bingo event, and Lisa Kumputa, Activities Director of the Care Center.

Marilee Harper, food concession chair for the upcoming BINGO night, has been busy arranging for homemade chile and pies to be served.

Plan on coming to NNCC on February 29 for an evening of food and fun.

(Submitted Photo)

Marilee Harper, Food Concession Chair for the Bingo event Friday, February 29 arranged for homemade chile and pies which were served during the event. Tom Lee of NNCC is anxiously waiting to sample the numerous pies.

Visions

NNCC FOUNDATION Brochure

Northern Nevada Community College Foundation is pleased to announce a donation from Newmont Gold to NNCC of a video projector and related equipment. Mr. Lee Hoffman of Newmont Gold made the presentation to Mrs. Juanita Karr, Director of the Learning Resource Center. Mrs. Karr noted that, "The equipment will be utilized by the LRC throughout the campus. We are always pleased to receive valuable equipment from supporters of the College." Mr. Hoffman stated, "This equipment was previously used in a Newmont office on the East Coast. We want to see the equipment put to good use and there are no better uses than the educational ones which will be found for it at NNCC. Newmont is delighted to be able to help in this way."

F.I.B. Donation — Northern Nevada Community College Foundation received the third installment of $20,000 as a donation from First Interstate Bank of Nevada Foundation who pledged a total of $100,000. Mr. Greg Boden of F.I.B. in Elko made the presentation to Angel F. Riley, an Associated Student Body Senator and to Mr. John T. McDonough, a new Trustee of the NNCC Foundation. Boden said, "First Interstate Bank of Nevada has a strong commitment to this community. We're delighted to be part of this worthwhile project." McDonough commented that it was because of the commitment of businesses such as First Interstate Bank that NNCC is able to expand their facilities and continue to offer higher educational programs. McDonough is one of nine new Trustees to recently join the Foundation Board. The Board now consists of 31 members with representation from Elko, Carlin, Wells, Tuscarora, Ely and Winnemucca.
E.I.N.D 4/8/92

Foundation gift: Greg Boden of First Interstate Bank of Nevada, left, presents $20,000 check to Angel Riley, Northern Nevada Community College Associated Student Body senator, and John T. McDonough, NNCC Foundation trustee. The donation is the third installment of the bank's $100,000 pledge to the foundation. McDonough said "I believe that the educational opportunities provided by NNCC greatly benefit all the citizens of Northern Nevada. It is because of the commitment of businesses such as First Interstate Bank that NNCC is able to expand its programs." McDonough is one of nine new trustees to join the foundation's 31-member governing board with representation from Elko, Wells, Carlin, Tuscarora, Ely and Winnemucca.

4-18-92 E DFP

MBA money: The three largest gold mines in the area, Newmont Gold Company, Barrick Goldstrike Mines and Independence Mining Company, are once again donating $41,000 so students can earn a master of business administration degree from the University of Nevada Reno at Northern Nevada Community College. Newmont and Barrick donated $17,500 each and Independence, $8,000.

From left are: Dan Scartezina, director of employee relations for Newmont; Brent Chamberlain, human resource manager for Independence; Don Winne, associate dean of the UNR College of Business; and Rod Sled, superintendent of employee relations at Barrick. The MBA program was started at NNCC last fall with the mines' first $41,000 donation.

Independence Donates To NNCC — Debbie Laney, Independence Metallurgical Technical Superintendent stands with NNCC P.R. Director Val Easterly by the new CAHN 25 Automatic Electrobalance scale. It was donated to the NNCC Geology lab to use for weighing fine materials.
NNCC 5/20/92 (staff photo)

EDFP 5-23-92
Fine scale Independence Mining Company donated a Cahn 25 automatic electrobalance machine to the geology lab at Northern Nevada Community College last week. The machine can weigh fine particles of ore, said Debbie Laney, left, metallurgist technical superintendent for the mine. At right is Valerie Easterly, director of planning and public information at NNCC.

Northern Nevada
Community College
Foundation Newsletter

Paul Rolan, engineering manager for University of Nevada Reno, was pictured yesterday at KNNC's makeshift studio at Northern Nevada Community College. Supporters of Elko's first public radio station say it will be ready to begin broadcasting as soon as an FCC license is received and staff members are found.

EDFP 7-9-92

Elko public radio station KNNC sets up equipment

Three years after winning grant money, Elko public radio station KNNC is almost ready for regular broadcasts except for two major items — a Federal Communications Commission license and money to hire a staff.

"We were supposed to have the license a year ago," said Carl Diekhans, dean of college services at Northern Nevada Community College and one of the station's organizers. "We're expecting it any day now."

Equipment for the new station arrived this week at NNCC, and a temporary studio has been established there. An audio converter is the only major piece of equipment not yet set up.

As planned, KNNC will broadcast at 91.5 on the FM radio dial. It will have 100 watts "effective radiated power," and should also reach Spring Creek and possibly Carlin and Wells.

"That's a big maybe because of the way the mountains are," said Paul Rolan, engineering manager for University of Nevada Reno, which is setting up Elko's station.

UNR and its National Public Radio station, KUNR, are scheduled to play a big role in the Elko station. Once its license is approved, organizers say KNNC will relay KUNR's broadcasts 24 hours a day until a local staff can be found and programs can be produced in Elko. KNNC will continue to use mostly KUNR programs even after a staff is in place.

Rolan added it could be another year before KNNC begins broadcasting unless volunteer staffers are located. "With the budget cuts there really isn't money for staff to run it," he said.

An Elko board of directors, chaired by Marshall Smith, has been set up to oversee the station.

KNNC has been trying to become Elko's first public radio station since 1989 when NNCC accepted a $100,125 equipment grant, partially funded by the Department of Commerce. Local backers were required to raise another $33,500 in matching funds. At that time, officials said the station could be on the air in as little as one year.

But Diekhans said KNNC's original license application was delayed by the FCC. He said he believes the reason for the delay was a coordinate map drawn to the wrong scale.

"In some ways it's just as well that the project dragged out because they've had a hard time coming up with the funding," Rolan commented.

KNNC's relayed programs will originate at the KUNR studio in Reno. The Nevada state microwave system, using five microwave stations, then will beam programs to Elko Mountain for broadcast to listeners. Locally produced material will be sent from NNCC to Elko Mountain for broadcast.

Rolan said the transmission system already has been tested.

KUNR's format mostly is classical music, according to station manager Marianne Murray. It also carries National Public Radio programs including "Morning Edition," "All Things Considered" and "Weekend Edition," Garrison Keillor's American Radio Company Show and late-night jazz and reggae music programs.

"I think the first step is to get KUNR on the air and give people an idea of what public radio is," Murray said.

In the past, KNNC supporters have said locally produced shows could include ethnic music, a Basque program, cowboy poetry, a community forum and Elko orchestra performances.

ADULT EDUCATION

SPANISH PROGRAMS

Elko
Adult Education Programs

Adult Education
and
Spanish Programs

THE KNIGHT WRITER.

:00 am Union d October rone

Knight

A publication of the NINCC Associated Student Body

ASB UPDATE

ASB constitution changes made

By Toni Mendive

The ASB student council recently adopted several changes to the ASB Constitution and the revised edition of the constitution was voted on by students during executive officer elections on April 28-29.

A majority of the ballots cast on election day was in favor of the changes.

The major additions to the constitution included election of a senator from both the Ely and Winnemucca centers to represent the

A. V. AS S

Amber Van honored as N the Univers
Nevada Bd
Thursday
Vance vice-pr
(SNC) als

ASB NEWSLETTER

"Knight Writer"

ART

Artist Marilyn Cordes stands with LRC Director Juanita Karr in front of her exhibit.

E.IND 9/4/91

Cordes Exhibits At NNCC

The Learning Resource Center at the Northern Nevada Community College is now showing an art exhibit by local painter Marilyn Cordes.

Cordes has lived in Spring Creek for 13 years with her family. She works as a secretary at the Spring Creek Elementary School and paints during her off-hours. She has had many successful exhibits.

Most of the twenty paintings hanging in the LRC are watercolor florals. Cordes said one of her favorite subjects to paint is roses. Several pieces are done on handmade paper which has been made by Cordes or her husband Bill. Two of the more unique watercolors were painted on an ore bag and physician examination paper. Cordes said the examination paper was difficult to paint on, as it was slippery.

For more than twenty years, Cordes has painted in various mediums. She said she has studied under several artists including, Richard Yipp, Al Cunningham, Jackie Goodyear, and Bill Alexander, to name a few.

In 1990, she had her second show at the Northeastern Nevada Museum. She has also shown her work in Carson City. More recently, Cordes has expanded her art to include pen and ink drawings. She illustrated, "Together In My Name," a book on the Lamolille Church written by Linda Stapley. The NNCC exhibit includes five copies of the original copyrighted pen and ink illustrations.

Cordes said, "I gain much personal satisfaction with my art. Painting is a special joy to me. I will always paint."

The work of Marilyn Cordes can be viewed at the NNCC Learning Resource Center through the end of September. Several of the pieces are for sale. For more information on Cordes' work or lessons, call 753-6532.

Local artists Barbara Hofheins, left, and Nikki Hastings are currently exhibiting their work at Northern Nevada Community College.

EDFP 9/28/91

Hastings and Hofheins Exhibit Paintings At NNCC

Artists Barbara Hofheins and Nikki Hastings

Northern Nevada Community College recently announced the opening of a painting exhibit featuring student Nikki Hastings and NNCC Job Placement Specialist, Barbara Hofheins. The work of these artists may be viewed in the Learning Resource Center during normal hours through October 25.

Hastings currently attends NNCC as a full-time student pursuing a career in art therapy. Raised as a military dependent, Hastings lived for six years in Europe and has lived 11 years in the United States. She said, "I was brought up in an artist environment but did not pursue the field until I began attending NNCC. The exhibit opened on my birthday — a great birthday present!"

Hastings began painting less than a year ago. Her first painting was exhibited at the Elko County Fair and received a blue ribbon with special honors. When asked about influential artistic people in her life, she credited instructor Sarah Sweetwater as initiator, Karen Vollbrecht as motivator, and Roy Mason as teacher. Hastings is married and plans to complete a Master's Degree in Art Therapy and eventually work with emotionally disturbed children and traumatized adults.

Also featured in the exhibit is Ely native Barbara Hofheins. She has lived in Elko four years and is employed by NNCC's Re-entry Center. She has received two degrees from NNCC: an Associate of Applied Science in Business Administration and an Associate in Arts. In addition, she was salutatorian of her first graduating class and valedictorian of her second. "I've painted in acrylics for years," said Hofheins, "but just started watercolor painting in January. Learning about the use of watercolor for landscapes and animals has been rewarding. At one point in time, I quit painting completely. NNCC instructors Georgia Hemsley, Sarah Sweetwater and Patty Fox nurtured by creative urges and staged my return to the painting form." When Hofheins is not working, exercising her creativity, or parenting four children, she spends time hunting, fishing, camping, riding horses, and soaking up color at the Ruby Marshes. F.Ind. 10/2/91

Exhibit: Fifteen paintings by Artist Billy Martin of Sweetwater, Texas, went on display today at Northern Nevada Community College's Learning Resource Center. A reception in his honor is slated to be held Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the college library. Martin and NNCC art instructor Sarah Sweetwater displayed two of his paintings earlier this week. The top one is entitled "409 Oak St.," and the bottom one, "Bible Crease." Both paintings are in acrylic and latex. Martin's paintings will be on exhibit for four weeks. EDFP 10/30/91

NNCC art exhibit held

Northern Nevada Community College is exhibiting the artistry of more than 50 NNCC students in its Learning Resources Center through Dec. 18.

The show features a visual analogy contest and a variety of artwork by students enrolled in classes taught by Carys Hamer, Patty Fox, Debra Finley, Sara Sweetwater and Toni Schutte. The exhibit includes graphic arts, water colors, oil and acrylic paintings, ceramics, sculpture, handmade paper baskets and hitched-hair jewelry.

The artists created the contest analogies by putting objects together in a two- or three-dimensional format to express a phrase, statement or title, explains Sweetwater. She invites people to view the analogies and guess their meanings. Deco of Elko has donated table mats, coasters and a set of glasses to be awarded to the person with the most correct answers. Contestants may enter the contest at the resources center. The deadline for entering is Dec. 18.

Tammy Lowe, left, and Susan Wilson from the Ideas and Creative Process class at Northern Nevada Community College hang posters for the NNCC Visual Analogy Contest.

Some of the featured artists in the Northern Nevada Community College student art exhibit are, from left, Jess Marin, Joe Winburn, Opal Adams, Nikki Hastings, Loren Swisher, Barbara Thompson, Brenda Young and Carrie Mauldin.

Endowment: Last Saturday, Ariel W. Glenn of Ruby Valley presented a $5,000 check to Sarah Sweetwater, right, chairman of the Northern Nevada Community College Art Department. The check will be used to support the Ariel Glenn Scholarship Fund, which will present a $500 scholarship each year for the next 10 years to a NNCC art student. Nicki Hastings, center, was the artist selected as the first recipient. She is shown with her painting entitled "Harrison Pass," which depicts the countryside around the entrance to the Starr Tungsten Mine.

EDFP 11/1/92

Sarah Sweetwater works with pneumatic tools on an alabaster sculpture. 3-5-92 EDFP

Local artist exhibits work at special show

Local artist Sarah Sweetwater is scheduled to deliver a sculpture to the "Women In History" invitational show at Sierra Nevada College at Incline Village near Lake Tahoe. The exhibit was to open today and is being held in celebration of National Women's Month.

For the show, Sweetwater reworked two sculptured pieces of Colorado alabaster and assembled them into a work called "Digging Up Women's History: Specimen No. 1: 'Fanny'." It will resemble a museum archeological display.

At the top of a 6 1/2-foot high smoked plexiglass display case is the alabaster head of a woman from below the nose to above the breastbone. Halfway down and on the other side is an life-sized sculpture of a woman's buttocks and the outline of a figure is etched on the plexiglass.

Sweetwater said she has been reading physical and cultural anthropological books to learn how scientists look at the evolution of mankind. "One of the reasons I love art is because it is a self-discovery process," she explained.

She now plans to do more fragmentary-type sculptures such as hands holding a rosary, the top of a head and similar works to symbolize all the roles women play. "This project seems to have a life of its own," she noted.

Sweetwater, who works half of the year as head of the Northern Nevada Community College art department, has a studio where there is room to store several tons of marble. Her equipment includes an exhaust system to carry away stone dust that is made when she works with pneumatic tools.

This summer, she reports, several students will visit Eiko from Arizona to work with her as apprentices.

ED FP
3/6/92

Sweetwater rock mural commissioned by Reno

Sculptor and art teacher Sarah Sweetwater was recently commissioned to create a 6½- by 11-foot mural to be installed next month on the front of a Virginia Street casino as part of the Reno Redevelopment Project.

Sweetwater, who has been with Northern Nevada Community College since 1971, was commissioned to make one of nine murals. It will be made of rock gathered from all parts of the state that has been "slabbed" (cut in thin slices) to show the colorful interior structures of the stones. The center of the mural, depicting Nevada mountains and desert, will be surrounded by a row of geometric rock designs.

Sweetwater submitted three ideas to a committee last January and all were accepted, but because her medium is so time-consuming and the deadline is mid-April, she only contracted to do one.

She is being assisted by many people including Al and Sharon Hitchborn, Richard Kampf, Jim Mace and her daughters, who have accompanied her in gathering pickup loads of native Nevada rock from all over the state.

She will be using a new stone saw donated to the college by Ariel Glenna, who lives at Harrison Pass in the old mining camp. "This saw will make possible a department of lapidary and stone sculpture at NNCC," Sweetwater said.

Mary Ann LaMorte also will assist. She is an apprentice in a cooperative education program.

Mike McFarlane, NNCC physics instructor, is "slabbing" stones with the college's oil-cooled rock saw. The device can cut slice rock three-sixteenths of an inch thick and six inches in diameter in about two hours.

The colors are amazing, Sweetwater noted. "There are greens, pinks, yellows, whites and blues. So the rock is translucent when it's sliced and I can see future art students using them to make lamp bases and lamp shades with light bulbs behind them... Geology students are surely seeing a lot of interesting information in these slabs."

The heavy mural will be cut into five pieces to be assembled in Reno. Its frame is being made by Rowdy Wilbanks, mill student and teaching assistant in the NNCC welding department, Ed Martin, head of the welding department, and Ral Siler, mining technology instructor.

Wilbanks said the metal frame weighs more than 200 pounds and will hold the plywood template. Sweetwater will shape pieces of rock and attach them to the plywood to complete the work.

Details such as grouting, cleaning and painting the metal and putting on a finishing coat are still in the planning stages. This project is a fine example of interdisciplinary course work," Sweetwater pointed out.

The artist has also created the water memorial in front of the Elko County Courthouse and the water fountain sculpture in the railroad corridor park. She is one of 15 invited Nevada artists to exhibit in the "Women's History" show at Sierra Nevada College in Incline Village in celebration of "Women's Month."

Dorene Soto of the Reno Redevelopment Agency said, "The City of Reno is excited about working with Sarah and having her mural become a permanent piece of Reno's collection."

Sarah Sweetwater and Mike McFarlane talk about one of the slabs he has just "slabbed" with NNCC's oil cooled rock saw for mural.

Sarah Sweetwater discusses the frame for her slabbed stone mural with welder Rowdy Wilbanks (left), and Ed Martin (second from right) of NNCC. The mural, commissioned by the Reno Redevelopment Agency, will be permanently hung on a casino front on Virginia Street in downtown Reno.

Sweetwater invites public to look at work on mural

Sarah Sweetwater's mural, which was commissioned by the Reno Redevelopment Agency for installation this month at the front of a Virginia Street casino, is nearing completion at the artist's studio at 1289½ River St.

People are invited to drop by today or tomorrow to look at the 6½-by-11-foot metal and rock sculpture.

Sweetwater, who teaches at Northern Nevada Community College, says besides the slices of rock cut from stones she collected from around the state and thin sheets of metal representing copper, gold and silver, which were mined in Nevada, she is using plywood, steel framing, epoxy, floor covering adhesive, window silicone, wood sealer, carriage bolts, "u" nuts and thousands of escutcheons (little brads) on the mural. Before she and her art student assistants are done, the mural will also include auto shop-applied spray paint on the frame, colored mortar, lacquer and rock sealant.

"This has been an evolving process," says the sculptor. "It's the most work intensive project I've ever done." She has been in her studio from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week for a month and she has done most of the welding herself in the NNCC auto shop.

Cecil Harris helped her with welding details one day, and, she noted appreciatively, many NNCC teachers and students have also assisted with the monumental task. "I couldn't have done it alone."

This week she is being assisted by Thad Ballard of Clover Valley, Mona Kutch of Winnemucca and Sharon Hitchborn of Elko.

The group is using hammers to pound in thousands of tiny escutcheons. "It's like a quilting bee," says Sweetwater, "only we are using non-traditional materials."

The center of the mural will depict Nevada mountains, a stream and trees made of strategically placed rock slabs. It will be surrounded by a border of sets of "book matched" pieces of the same rocks. The outside border is of geometric shapes cut from the metal sheets.

Sweetwater has been with NNCC since 1971 and has continued her art education by studying with artists and sculptors in places such as California, New Mexico and Italy.

She created the war memorial in front of Elko County Courthouse and the water fountain sculpture in the railroad corridor park and has shown her work in many places out of state. Most recently she was invited to exhibit in the "Women in History" show at Sierra Nevada College in Incline Village in celebration of "Women's Month."

She will tow the several-hundred pound mural to Reno on Sunday after Larry Martin, Ron Baker and Abel Perez heft it onto a trailer. She must have it installed by Wednesday.

Dorene Soto of the redevelopment agency said, "The City of Reno is excited about working with Sarah and having her mural become a permanent piece of Reno's art collection."

Among those engaged in assembling Sarah Sweetwater's stone and metal sculpture, from left, are Mona Kutch, Thad Ballard, Sweetwater and Sharon Hitchborn. (Submitted photo)

EDFP 5-12-92

Art exhibit: Northern Nevada Community College currently is featuring an end-of-semester student art exhibit in the college library. The exhibit includes the work of 25 students from the art classes of instructors Velma Hibdon, stained glass; Kay Wall, watercolor; Judy Pletcher, photography; Debbie

Finley, ceramics; Sarah Sweetwater, sculpture; and Patty Fox, drawing and watercolor. Pictured with the photography display, from left, are Pletcher; Melanie Erickson, student; Fox; and Mona Noakes, who will instruct photography classes in the fall.

Humboldt Sun 5-13-92 - Winnemucca

NNCC student art on display at local gallery

Art by students of Northern Nevada Community College will be on display through the month of May at the Winnemucca Fine Arts Gallery.

Those showing artwork in a variety of mediums include Shirley Corbett, Shirley Dodds, Keith Frazier, Daniel Haskill, Charlie Jones, Diana Lasa, Kathy Lecumberry, Sherry Leonard, Anita Paquette, Diane Pickett, Beverly Sage, Janelle Snow-Raabe, Lee Stark, Scott Stewart, Teddy Swecker and Judith Tackett.

A reception for the artists will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday, May 14, and the public is invited to attend and greet the artists.

Regular gallery hours are from 1-4 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

The Winnemucca Fine Arts Gallery is in the basement of Nixon Opera House, with the entrance on the Melarkey Street side.

NURSING

AHEC

Building Bridges In Nevada

by Ann Diggins

On a typical day, Dr. Richard Ingle of Winnemucca doesn't go home until after 9 p.m., sometimes as late as midnight. As the only doctor who delivers babies in the rural northern triangle between Elko, Reno and Boise, his hours are often long and grueling.

Joyce Halverson, director of nursing at the Elko Regional Medical Center, finds her typical day often means being in charge of patient treatments and education as well as conducting staff training, often for complicated procedures like cancer patients' chemotherapy.

These are two of the many health care professionals in rural Nevada who are being reached by the University of Nevada School of Medicine's Area Health Education Centers. AHEC, a federally funded project, has three goals: to provide education and information services to health professionals; to recruit students from rural and underserved* communities into health careers; and to provide field work experiences in rural and underserved areas for medical, nursing, and allied health students.

Through its offices in Reno, Elko and Las Vegas, AHEC works to bring health professionals in rural areas the services their counterparts in urban Nevada routinely have available, according to Deputy Director Nancy Rody, Dr.P.H. In Nevada, this is a real challenge because of the long distances and small populations that makes this state more frontier* than rural.

Dr. Stanley McCard (right) of Lovelock and Gerald Ackerman, the Learning Resource Center coordinator, work with the computer network that accesses 500 medical journals.

Dr. Robert Daugherty, dean of the medical school and director of the AHEC program, says the program helps the school realize many of its long-term outreach goals.

"In just two short years, AHEC has allowed the School of Medicine to develop and implement programs often talked about, but never completed because of a shortage of staff and funding," the dean says.

The cooperation and input from physicians and other health professionals who teach courses and take students into their practices is a main reason the AHEC program has been able to accomplish those goals, according to Dr. Rody.

Much feedback also comes from the policy-making board made up of health professionals and business leaders from throughout northern Nevada that oversees the AHEC's Northeastern Center in Elko, she adds.

Dr. Ingle and other physicians are an important part of the partnership system. While he is able to receive continuing medical education credits through AHEC's Learning Resource Center, a mini-medical library based at the Northeastern Nevada AHEC, he also volunteers his time to take fourth-year medical students into his practice several times a year for their rural rotation.

* In federal jargon, "frontier" refers to areas with 6 or fewer people per square mile; "rural" indicates 6-100 people per square mile; "underserved" indicates an area with too few health professionals.

"The patients are thrilled that they don't have to travel."

For Halverson, AHEC provides education that was previously unavailable in Elko and often meant a trip as far away as Salt Lake City or Reno. The course that made the most impact for Halverson was nursing management of chemotherapy patients.

"Because of the understanding that course gave me, we were able to enhance employee safety and it has made me a much better practitioner," Halverson says. And perhaps just as important, now cancer patients in Elko County who need chemotherapy don't have to travel to Reno or Salt Lake City.

"The patients are thrilled that they don't have to travel, but instead can stay here for their treatments," she says of the 12 to 15 patients treated monthly at the clinic. "In rural areas, we now have an expertise we didn't have before."

Continuing education also works for physicians, through home study videos and one-hour conferences held monthly in Elko. Currently, School of Medicine internal medicine faculty and residents are focusing on neurology issues.

"For so long, rural health care providers were forced to travel to urban areas to have access to any resources," Dr. Rody adds. "That is no longer the case because AHEC now brings its resources to rural areas."

Continuing education is a big part of what AHEC is all about, Yvonne Chaves, the northeastern center director, says. In 1989, more than 1,000 rural health care professionals attended 89 courses in their home communities. Topics covered ranged from emergency care to geriatrics to newborn care.

AHEC's Learning Resource Center, based at Northern Nevada Community College in Elko, is really a traveling mini-medical library. Coordinator Gerald Ackerman spends most of his days on the road visiting the state's rural communities. One of his most popular services is a portable computer disc system that accesses 500 journals through the National Library of Medicine; he places it in hospitals and doctors' offices and then trains staff on the use of the equipment. Other resources at the center include hundreds of journals, interlibrary loans and literature searches.

Students are the other important component of the AHEC program.

Kurt Kracaw, a native of Winnemucca who plans to specialize in rural family practice, was surprised at what he learned while studying with Dr. Ingle.

(Left to right) Yvonne Chaves, Gerald Ackerman, Bettie Rundlett, Karen Kimber and La Rene Good staff the Northeastern Nevada AHEC.

Kracaw says he chose rural medicine because he likes small towns and privacy, along with a slower way of life, but he found the pace in Dr. Ingle's office was anything but slow.

"What I've seen has been much different," Kracaw says during an interview between patients at Dr. Ingle's office. "It's been very demanding."

He adds that his rural rotation was his busiest, even when compared to the other "tough" clerkships such as surgery. Despite the grueling schedule, however, Kracaw praised the rotation. "Once students have done their clinical rotations, this brings it all back together because you think you know so much, but there's a lot of things to learn," Kracaw says.

While with Dr. Ingle, Kracaw saw a wide range of patients, from babies needing checkups, to adults needing stress tests to senior citizens dealing with chronic illnesses.

Dr. Ingle said spending time with him sometimes scares students out of rural medicine. "They see how diversified the practice is and how many things a rural doctor has to handle in a day," Kracaw, who landed a family practice residency in Boise, asserts that he hasn't been scared away.

There are too few doctors, though. The shortage is so severe that last year Dr. Ingle delivered his own wife's baby.

AHEC also provides opportunities for students in other health professions to go to rural communities and work in their field. To date, health education, nutrition, clinical laboratory sciences, and undergraduate and graduate nursing students have done field work rotations in communities throughout the state. Soon, health professions students from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas will also participate in this program.

Adrian Fletcher, a senior nutrition student at the University of Nevada, Reno, spent one week working with senior citizens in Elko, assessing the needs of the homebound elderly and working at the Elko Senior Center. Fletcher says the experience helped her put classroom theory into practice.

"You get a lot of theory in school, but when you deal with real people it's different," she says.

As much as the students learn from their experience, the physicians and others that work with them also benefit. Marge Kellers, social services coordinator at the Elko Senior Center, says it's very rewarding for her to work with the students. "We all learn something. They bring new ideas to us and the senior citizens appreciate the visits so much. They just love young people."

AHEC also works to give physicians and other health care professionals the tools they need to successfully teach students. AHEC staff visit all preceptors regularly for one-on-one sessions,

Nursing assistants receive training through college

12/24/91
wvmea
By Chris Bristol
Sun Staff Writer

If you've ever considered nursing as a career, a good place to start would be the nursing assistant class offered by Northern Nevada Community College.

And if all you want to be is an assistant, you have to take the class.

In 1989 the state Legislature passed a law mandating that nursing assistants must be certified by the Nevada State Board of Nursing. The idea was to ensure that minimum standards were met by nursing assistants, but the offshoot of the law — certification courses such as the one offered by NNCC — has the added benefit of re-introducing adults to classes while also giving prospective nurses a close but safe look at the profession.

"We feel that this class many times is a starting point for adult learners," said Judy Albertson, director of nursing at Humboldt General Hospital, who also helps coordinate and teach the class. "It gives them an opportunity to see what basic medical care is about. They get exposed to numerous situations in a medical setting."

Moreover, Albertson added, "It can be a stepping stone to continuing in a nursing career as a licensed practical nurse or a registered nurse."

Nursing assistants are involved in a wide range of activities in most hospitals. Among other things, they take vital signs, serve meals and help patients.

Up until this summer, a certification course was being offered by Humboldt General Hospital, but the law recently was amended to prohibit hospital's from being in charge of certification.

Now the courses are being overseen by the state's community colleges, although they are still mostly being taught at and by the staff of hospitals such as Humboldt General. The course is good for college credit and, as such, some students may be qualified to receive financial aid.

Counting lab time, students in the six-credit class meet twice-a-week for several months for a total of 76 hours — four hours longer than the state minimum of 72 hours.

It covers everything from birth to death, including emergency CPR training, basic physical care, first aid, nutrition and psycho-social issues.

Albertson is just one of five HGH registered nurses who teach the class depending on individual areas of expertise. The other nurse-teachers are Pamela Ruark, Phyllis Massac, Kathy Gillihan and Judy Jones.

Once students have successfully completed the course, they have to receive final certification from the state nursing board by taking written and practical exams in Reno or Elko. If they pass, they are qualified to be hired.

"It's the same process that licensed nurses go through," Albertson said. "It's just on a different level of expertise."

Anne Towne, one of two women who recently finished the course at NNCC, is getting ready to take the state's certification tests. In the meantime, she has been hired at Humboldt General and is working the graveyard shift.

She said she plans to try to get into the nursing school in Elko, and that taking the course and working as an assistant is more prudent than "applying to a nursing school and finding out after six months that you really weren't prepared for it."

Before she can get into the Elko school, Towne must take several prerequisites that also are offered at NNCC. The certification course, she said, is a good way to get used to taking classes.

"A lot of people, women especially, might hear the word 'college' and think that it will be too hard," Towne said. "But it can be done. It's not too hard."

Albertson said that since certification has become mandatory, nursing assistants have begun taking more pride in their jobs and have been keeping them longer.

"I think they see themselves as important members of the patient care team. And that's a result of increased knowledge and skills from the certification course," Albertson said.

"Before, nursing assistant was one of those jobs that had a high attrition rate, somewhere in the range of 100 percent turnover annually," she continued. "Now, it's only about 15 percent."

Humboldt General currently employs between 18-20 nursing assistants, and Albertson said they are an indispensable part of the nursing profession.

"They're a vital part of Humboldt General and we couldn't deliver quality care without them," Albertson said. "They do the hands on care and they become the eyes and ears for the licensed nurses because they spend the greatest amount of time with the patients."

Meeting set for degree in nursing

Nevada Area Health Education Centers has scheduled a Friday meeting at Northern Nevada Community College for persons interested in acquiring a bachelors degree in nursing through a proposed program at NNCC.

The meeting is slated for 10 to 11 a.m. in Berg Hall and individual advisement sessions with Rosemary Witt, chairman of the University of Nevada Las Vegas nursing department, will be scheduled from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Anyone who plans to meet with Witt is asked to schedule an appointment through the health education office, 738-3828. Participants must bring a copy of their transcript.

Prior to enrollment, prospective students must have completed one semester each of organic chemistry and inorganic chemistry. Organic chemistry is scheduled at NNCC during the spring semester.

Anyone who is interested in the program may call the health education office or UNLV nursing department at 739-3360, or 1-800-334-UNLV.

EDFP 11/8/92

FACULTY

AND

STAFF

1991 - 1992
DIRECT

1991-1992
STa ff Directory

28K-97W
10X13